Nixon Plans Hirohito Talk

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif., (AP) — At a tie when Japanese-American relations are stopping touchy, President Nixon and Emperor Hirohito have agreed to a historic September meeting in Alaska.

Although Japan's reigning monarch is largely restricted to making no more than suggestions to government leaders on policy questions, the time of the Nixon-Hirohito session was considered particularly significant in view of recent events that have raised major questions about the future of diplomatic and economic ties between the enemies of 30 years ago.

Nixon and Hirohito will meet on Sept. 26 at Anchorage, where the Emperor will pause before making an over-the-pole flight beginning a seven-nation European tour.

The two leaders will be accompanied by their wives, Pat Nixon and Empress Nagako.

This will be the first time a Japanese emperor has ever left his homeland and the first meeting of an American president with a Japanese monarch.

Japanese officials welcome Nixon's announcement. While "it is a general rule that the Emperor does not touch on political matters," said Nobuyoshi Uryu, a government spokesman, Hirohito's meeting with Nixon would "no doubt contribute to further promotion of friendly relations between the two countries."

The relations between the United States and its principal Pacific ally have been rocky in recent weeks.

Nixon's program announced Sunday to strengthen the dollar was aimed in large measure at reducing import of cheap goods.

Imports from Japan have been of great concern to U.S. manufacturers, especially in textiles and steel. The announcement set off heavy trading in Japanese money and stock markets, and brought a sharp drop in stock prices.

The action also put pressure on the Japanese government to revalue the yen upward but a special Japanese envoy, Yushuke Kashiwagi, said in Washington Friday this would not be done.

Another Nixon announcement, that he would visit Communist China before next May, angered some members of the Japanese government because he did not consult them and advised them only at the last minute.

The Western White House was quick to state, however, that the broad outlines of the meeting were agreed on before Nixon's Sunday announcement.

Said Nixon in a formal statement: "Mrs. Nixon and I plan to meet with their Majesties, the Emperor and Empress of Japan."

On Friday, he flew with California Gov. Ronald Reagan to the inland community of Loma Linda to announce plans for a $23.9 million Veterans Administration hospital there that will replace a smaller hospital near Los Angeles destroyed in the Feb. 9 Southern California earthquake.

The Western White House later announced he and Reagan had agreed upon a pilot project, to be implemented in New York and Illinois as well as designed to encourage public welfare by taking jobs in state and local governments and such nonprofit institutions as hospitals. Only a few thousand people in each state would be immediately affected, officials said.

Bolivian Rebels Claim Support Say 10,000 Armed Workers Marching To Nation's Capital

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The rebel radio claimed today that 10,000 armed workers were marching on La Paz to support the uprising against the leftist military government of President Juan Jose Torres.

The radio, broadcasting from the eastern city of Santa Cruz where the insurrection began Thursday, said the insurgents had military control of six of Bolivia's nine provinces. It warned government supporters that further resistance "will be useless."

Two-Man Vietnam Race?

Ky May Run, Court Decides

SAIGON (AP) — The Supreme Court, reportedly under pressure from President Nguyen Van Thieu and the United States, cleared the way today for a two-man presidential race. It reinstated Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky on the Oct. 3 ballot to oppose Thieu.

But Ky deferred his decision whether to run, telling newsmen through his press office that he would announce his decision Sunday. He canceled a scheduled afternoon news conference today.

There was no immediate reaction from retired Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh, who withdrew from the election Friday, leaving Thieu unopposed at that point and throwing the political situation into turmoil.

Assured Minh

Sources said Ky had assured Minh in a meeting four hours before the Supreme Court decision that he would not run, even if the court ruled in his favor.

Regardless of Ky's decision, his and Thieu's names will appear on the ballot. The election law states that "candidates do not have the right to withdraw" after the supreme court's final posting of candidates, which took place this afternoon. Ky still could choose not to campaign.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker was said to have played a key role in maneuvering Ky back into contention, thus giving the appearance of a reasonably fair South Vietnamese presidential election.

Need Two

By one reliable account, the 77-year-old ambassador convinced Thieu it was important to have a two-man race while also assuring Ky that the United States would treat him as a serious candidate. Ky backers had complained earlier in the campaign that the United States was downgrading Ky as a candidate and paying attention only to Minh, as a challenger to Thieu.

Like Ky, Minh had repeatedly charged that Thieu was rigging the election and said Friday: "I decided to withdraw because I cannot help in a dirty farce that can only make the people disbelieve in a democratic regime."

Only Minutes

The Supreme Court decision came only minutes after Bunker and Ky had met for an hour at the vice president's villa. Earlier Ky and Minh had conferred for an hour.

Reliable sources said Bunker, in an 11th hour meeting with Thieu Friday after Minh had pulled out of the race, persuaded Thieu to tell the court to reinstate Ky. The nine-man court is Thieu-appointed. Eight members are reportedly aligned with Thieu and the ninth is a friend of Ky's.

Strong Warning

It was known that Bunker relayed to Thieu a strong warning from President Nixon—that it would be difficult to get the U.S. Congress to approve more aid to the Thieu government if there was only one candidate in the presidential race.

Bunker even took Sen. Robert J. Dole, chairman of the Republican National Committee and a close ally of Nixon's, to the meeting with Thieu late Friday. Dole also warned Thieu that there would be a very critical reaction in the Congress should he be the only man in the race.

1969 Report Revealed

Nixon Panel Opposed SST

WASHINGTON (AP) — A previously secret report just released shows a presidential panel recommended in March 1969 that contracts for the SST be cancelled and the government cease its backing of the project.

The report was released Friday by President Nixon's Office of Science and Technology because the agency wanted to counter "certain impressions... depicting the government as attempting to conceal hitherto undisclosed factual data on the SST program."

2 Groups

Peter L. Koff, an attorney for two environmental groups and the American Civil Liberties Union, said the report was released in response to a lawsuit against presidential science adviser, Dr. Edward H. David. Filed in the summer of 1970, the suit charged the report could not be withheld from public scrutiny under the Freedom of Information Act of 1966. The government said the report was exempt because of executive privilege, the claimed right of the executive branch to withhold information.

A federal court in Washington

David, director of the OST, said the release was made to "dispel any further misconceptions that might result from continued litigation."

Congress killed the SST in May when it voted down a proposal to convert a $85.3 million termination fund into revival money. In late March, Congress had voted to scrap further funding of the plane.

The presidential committee, headed by Richard L. Garwin of International Business Machines in New York, recommended two years earlier the program was unfeasible because of an anticipated poor market, high technical risks, the fact the SST would not be allowed to fly over land because of sonic booms, the likelihood of fare surcharges, probable environmental damage from high-altitude flights and high financial risks.

Exceed $1.3 Billion

"We believe that the development cost will substantially exceed $1.3 billion, both because of difficulties and overruns and because of the necessity for extensive flight tests," the committee said.

U.S. Seeks Court Injunction to Stop Pay Hikes in Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Com-shoulder, the administration announced its intention without giving Smith the time to back down gracefully.

The administration also faces challenges to the wage ceiling from nationwide teachers' organizations and from state officials in Louisiana, who say of the 90-day freeze was ordered Friday by the Cost of Living Council, headed by Smith's predecessor in the Austin statehouse, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

Justice Department officials said a suit naming Smith and other state officials would be filed in U.S. District Court in Austin next Tuesday or Wednesday.

'Little Business'

Smith's office said the governor would fly to Washington today "to attend to a little business," but a spokesman added that Smith would not meet with anyone in the administration.

Apparently setting the pattern for response to future violations, the government will seek a civil injunction barring the raises rather than criminal penalties for disobedience of the executive order imposing the freeze.

Although demonstrating a determination to make Nixon's order stick, the need to resort to the court in Texas underscores a potential weakness in the administration's supposition of voluntary compliance with the freeze.

Dollar Test Monday

Relaxed European Market to Open

LONDON (AP) — Monday is testing day in Europe for the American dollar.

Six European governments announced Friday their foreign exchange markets would re-open after a stormy and confusing week prompted by President Nixon's suspension of the conversion of the dollar into gold.

For the first time in 27 years, Failed to Agree the markets will be operating on a do-it-yourself basis, every country seeking its own solution to problems raised by the new U.S. economic policy.

Following their failure at a conference in Brussels to agree on concerted action over the dollar, European capitals shaped up this way today:

London—For the first time since World War II the pound sterling will be free to float upward against the dollar, though apparently within a limit.

The bank will keep tabs on the situation by publishing daily dealing limits, though it is not saying yet what these will be.

Bonn—The German mark will float against the dollar in all transactions, as it has since May 9.

Rome—The Italian lira will remain at its official parity of 625 to the dollar. But the central bank, which is consulting with its partners in Britain and the European Common Market, indicated it will allow limited floating. Some experts believed this would be in the order of 3 per cent above or below.

Guilder Limited

The Hague and Brussels—The Dutch guilder will float free and the Belgian franc will be subject to a controlled float for commercial dealings.

Geneva—The Swiss may or may not open their foreign exchanges Monday, depending on further weekend developments.

The foreign exchange markets will be opening for the first time unrestricted by the 1944 Bretton Woods Conference at which European nations agreed to have their central banks buy and sell dollars to keep currencies within specified limits of fixed dollar exchange rates.

The Brussels conference of the Common Market Council broke down Friday after European financial leaders found the gulf between West Germany and France too wide to achieve a common monetary policy on the dollar crisis. Another meeting was set for Sept. 13.

Cold-Shoulder Dollar

If buyers rush for European currencies and cold-shoulder the dollar, their values rise while that of the dollar declines—in effect devaluing the dollar.

When other currencies rise in this way in relation to the dollar, U.S. goods become cheaper abroad. The U.S. balance of payments deficit shrinks and the American world trading situation becomes easier.

Meanwhile, Japanese officials appeared reservedly happy over the European deadlock. Japan has been buying hundreds of millions of dollars each day to keep the yen glued to the U.S. currency.

"The Japanese yen will not be revalued upward and will not float on the exchanges," declared Yushuke Kashiwagi, former vice minister of finance. A revaluation would result in deflation in Japan.

Blast Sets Block Ablaze In N. Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A powerful explosion set a block of stores ablaze in the center of Belfast early today.

Forty firemen took several hours to control the flames as they swept through eight shops. The fire could be seen from seven miles away.

Earlier a gunman ordered an attendant out of an automobile showroom, and then planted a bomb. The blast slightly wounded two men and a woman passerby.

In Londonderry, British troops opened fire at a man apparently aiming at them with a rifle, but the gunman escaped.

Despite the scattered violence, it was one of Northern Ireland's most peaceful nights since Aug. 9 when the British-ruled province was engulfed by a wave of street fighting and arson.

The death toll since then has reached 29—bringing the year's total to 87.

Dry, Itchy Hand Due To Contact Dermatitis

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For a year and a half I have had a skin infection on my left hand. The skin is dry, it cracks, peels and blisters and itches like mad.

I have been to a dermatologist and had shots, cortisone tablets and an antibiotic ointment. This helps but the condition keeps recurring.

Thosteson

I am lefthanded which could account for the infection on the left hand only. The dermatologist said it was nerves.

While laid off from work, the condition cleared up. I'm a machinist and noticed just lately when I work with cast iron that has a strong odor of sulphur the condition gets worse. I think it was about a year and a half ago we started using this type of iron.

Others in the shop have the same condition on their hands at times. Could you suggest anything that might help? Ointment and gloves are out on this job — C.D.

You're a good detective, I think. Your skin trouble has all the signs of being a contact dermatitis — a skin ailment due to contact with something or other.

Cases of contact dermatitis often are extremely difficult to identify because the causes can be such a variety of things. Soaps, dye, the paint on a broom handle, nickel-plated objects and an endless list of others.

I would guess that you have not told your dermatologist about that different type of iron you are using, but you very well may have the critical piece of information he needs to help you.

He evidently has tried remedies for the various kinds of skin disease that your case resembles; when your trouble keeps coming back, he suggests nerves.

But if you tell him about the new-type iron, and perhaps even give him some chips of the metal, it may well lead to solving your problem.

Salves and such may help a contact dermatitis somewhat, but the real answer, the permanent one, is to avoid contact with whatever the offending substance is.

Since other men in the shop are having similar trouble, I'd certainly call it to your employer's attention. The sulphur smell may or may not mean anything—but some alloy in the iron, or something used in a pickling solution, could be the culprit.

With other men bothered as well, I dare say that the producer of the iron would like to correct the situation, too.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please write the reason why you don't think douching is advisable after menopause.

Mrs. J.U.

Whether before or after menopause, it isn't necessary, doesn't do any good, and can, in fact, cause irritation if too harsh a solution is used. Even the mildest solution may cause irritation simply by washing secret. From a 94-year-old lady, away the natural secretions and — A lubricants of the tissues.

I don't expect to change the minds or habits of any women pills will read your letter. Also who have been brought up from girlhood thinking they ought to douche. Just the same, the best rule is to use a douche only when prescribed for medicinal purposes.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was reading about the person who wanted to know how to swallow a pill. Put it on the tongue, take a swallow of water, look down in the glass and swallow. Easy as that. Looking down is the secret. From a 94-year-old lady, away the natural secretions and — A lubricants of the tissues.

I don't expect to change the minds or habits of any women pills will read your letter. Also note that when they are eating dinner they don't have to tip their heads back whenever they swallow. Just relaxing has a lot to do with it.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, including scores of pertinent questions and their answers, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for his booklet, "Make Menopause Easier," enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed (use zip code) envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Tonto Officially Jay Silverheels

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The actor who played the Lone Ranger's sidekick Tonto for almost a decade on television is now Jay Silverheels—officially.

Superior Court Commissioner Harold Boisvert agreed recently to let the actor change his name from Harold J. Smith after he said Jay Silverheels is his true tribal name.

The actor, 59, a Mohawk born in Ontario, Canada, at the Six Nations Reserve, said the Canadian government had insisted that he list a nontribal name when he emigrated to the United States.

Silverheels, who runs the Indian Actors Workshop in Hollywood, is a proponent of Indian cultural identity.

Judge Dismisses Prisoner Claim Of Mouse Murder

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (AP) — With a quote from the poet Robert Burns, a state Supreme Court judge has dismissed the suit of 22 prisoners in the Suffolk County jail and laid to rest the case of Morris the Mouse.

The prisoners sued prison officials after their pet mouse Morris was "assassinated" by guards who flushed him down a toilet. They charged that prison officials did nothing about other rodents, while Morris kept him away.

After touring the jail Thursday, Justice 1. BaZron Hill said he found it "an antiseptic scrubbed stone environment, which would prove very inimical to the natural proclivities of any but the most ascetic rodent."

Then quoting Burns, he noted: "The best laid schemes o' mice an' men gang aft agley and leave us nought but grief an' pain for promised joy."

Orientation for Freshmen at Hortonville More 'Private'

HORTONVILLE — Incoming freshmen will report Aug. 30 to the high school for an orientation session to be joined on Aug. 31 by sophomores, juniors and seniors for the first day of classes.

Freshmen previously were introduced to the high school curriculum on the first day of classes. The change to a day earlier, more "private" orientation is being made this year to get the 180 ninth graders off to a better start under less crowded conditions.

The morning program for freshmen will include student speakers who will explain the various clubs and organizations. The faculty will be introduced and students will be briefed about school behavior policies.

School Song
After a short session in the homerooms, students will begin a "dry run" of their class schedules, which will help them find their classrooms more easily when school begins.

Also planned is an "instructional school spirit session" in which students will learn the school song and various cheers. Kindergartners also will begin classes Aug. 31. Mothers of kindergarten students will have an orientation program on Aug. 30.

Students in grades one through nine will report to school Aug. 30.

Ecology Course
Teachers' orientation will begin Wednesday with a series of in-service, department and faculty meetings. Teachers also will prepare for textbooks, bulletin boards and other needed equipment that week.

Deaths

Earl Hoernke, 56, 333 Grandview Ave., Neenah.

Mathew J. Meinhardt, 69, 209 Lyons St., New London.

August H. Schroeder, 77, 73 Pennsylvania Ave., Chilton.

John M. Graef, 85, 872 Paynes Point Rd., Neenah.

Deaths Elsewhere

Henry Danes, 83, Ellison Bay, formerly of New Holstein.

Two teachers, Ron Hammond and Darrell Johnson, have served on a committee studying Instruction Curriculum Environment (ICE). They will inform other faculty members on the possibility of developing an ecology course for all grades.

Six instructors have served on a committee drug project for Cooperative Education Service Agency No. 8 for 1½ years and they will discuss updating the project with other teachers.

Dr. Norris Sanders, formerly with the Manitowish school system and now on the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay staff, will speak to school employees on "The Taxonomy of Questioning," which will be followed by a work shop. He will tell the teachers how, when, and why to question.

The school system's special education program for mentally retarded children has been expanded to include two instructors in the elementary school.

Reimbursed by State
Mrs. Karen Scheuermann will fill the extra post Supt. Marvin Obry said 70 per cent of the special education salaries are reimbursed by the state.

Obry said bus routes will be basically the same as last year. Parents who have questions about transportation may call the bus driver who was on that route last year, Obry added.

The hot lunch program will begin Aug. 30. Prices will stay at last year's rates. Students in grades one through six must pay $1.50 and junior and senior high students must pay $1.75 a week for the program.

He added that students will be issued applications for free or reduced cost hot lunches on the first or second day of school. Parents may contact the school office if they have any questions regarding reduced rates for the program.

85 More Students
Last year, the district estimated an increase of 50 or 60 students for this year's enrollment, but Obry said the preliminary registration shows that the schools' enrollment will increase about 85 or 100 students. The increase, he added, is believed to be mainly from families moving into the district.

He said room conditions will be crowded and every room in the schools will be used virtually every hour of the school day. Kindergarten enrollment will increase by about five students, elementary enrollment will increase about 60 students, and there will be approximately 35 more high school students.

Your Problems

Would It be a Mockery to Wed in Church

BY ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am 20 years old and engaged to be married in the fall. My mother found a bottle of birth control pills in my lingerie drawer last night and went completely to pieces.

I have always wanted a large church wedding and we were talking about the guest list just last week. My mother says now that she knows what kind of girl I am she will not allow me to make a mockery of the church by masquerading as a virgin. She feels it would be dishonest to ask the minister to marry my fiancé and me in the House of God. According to my mother, no girl has the right to be married in church and wear a white gown and veil if she has not saved her maidenhood for marriage.

Will you please say something in your column to set her straight? Mother thinks you are very wise and I think perhaps she will listen to you. — Trouble in Salt Lake City

Dear Trouble: You have undoubtedly disappointed your mother deeply and she is responding in a punitive, revengeful manner. Surely your mother does not believe that every girl who marries in church is a virgin. I hope she will discuss this matter with the minister. He will set her straight and put in a plea in your behalf. — I hope.

Dear Ann Landers: When school starts again in the fall I want to have some friends for a change. My trouble is that I am too smart. I wish I was just average but I am one of those kids who gets A's without trying. The kids who work their heads to the bone and make B's and C's despise me.

I hate to sound like a braggart but this is the way it's been all my life. The boys especially think I am conceited and stuck up because I win all the science prizes and essay contests.

The mediocre kids envy me but I am not happy with all these brains. How can I hide my smartness and be one of the crowd? — Tizzie

Dear Tizzie: I've got some good news for you. You aren't as smart as you think you are. Smart people know how to put a dimmer on their brilliance so that it doesn't blind everyone within a radius of three miles. It's not your intelligence that irritates the kids, it's the way you handle it.

Dear Ann Landers: I'll make it short and sweet. My husband (age 42), father of four children (oldest 15, youngest 6), has been cheating on me for the past 10 years. I have caught him red-handed, flat-footed — every which way. He always says he is sorry, takes an oath on his mother's life, swears on his father's grave, and tells me it will never happen again — but it always does. I left him once for three weeks but it didn't change things.

At present the rat is making cow eyes at the new woman behind the checkout counter in the supermarket. Yesterday he told me he'd do the marketing and I could stay home and "take it easy." Tell me straight out if I should leave him once and for all or stick it out for the sake of the children? I need your advice. — Mrs. Donald Juan

Dear Mrs. Juan: Tell me straight out, would life be better with him or without him? You've had it both ways so you're in a position to judge. Only you know the answer to this one and I say your decision should be based on what's best for you and the children and not on your need to punish the rat with cow's eyes.

At the Chairman's Call

County Board Changes Rules

Supervisors who came to the courthouse Thursday morning expecting to quickly endorse Outagamie County's participation in the national Emergency Employment program and then return home or to work were in for a surprise.

Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt had County Clerk Arthur Hoolihan call the special meeting for the purpose of approving a grant agreement with the U. S. Department of Labor for job funds. The urgency arose when it was learned that federal officials in Chicago had to have the signed agreement from the county by today.

Supervisors no more than took their seats when DeLaHunt asked if there were any other issues they wanted to bring up.

DeLaHunt said consideration should be given to micro-filming county records and Supv. Delmar Schmeichel of the Town of Center indicated he wanted to talk about authority in the calling of public hearings.

Some supervisors, Robert Weyenberg of Kimberly in particular, questioned how the board could, under its own rules, act on matters other than those for which the special meeting was called.

County Board Rule 5 specifies that, with the exception of the November budget session, supervisors will meet the second Tuesday of each month. Rules spell out the procedure for calling special board meetings.

DeLaHunt suggested Thursday that Rule 5 be amended to permit special board meetings "at the call of the chairman." He said this would give the board chairman the same authority to call meetings as is now extended to committee chairmen.

Supv. Charles Wussow of Appleton said the move "caught me by surprise." He said that groups of supervisors have tried to change the rules in the past and have been turned down.

After only brief discussion, the board approved the rules change.

The board then plunged into a three-hour session that saw the approval of the grant agreement for emergency employment funds and discussions on maintenance at Barker Park and the long overdue receipt of promised federal funds for land purchase at Plamann Park.

In addition, the board voted to strip its rules and legislative committee of authority to pave the way for reapportionment and it voted to refer to its public property and parks committee, a proposal by DeLaHunt that a study be made into microfilming of county documents.

Several of the supervisors who had expected an abbreviated board session left early. Many of them said they had to get back to work.

DeLaHunt quipped that rain had settled the problem of some farmers having to leave their fields to come to the unscheduled board meeting.

Nixon Plans Hirohito Talk

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — At a tie when Japanese-American relations are looking forward to the meeting only as a personal pleasure but also as a means of demonstrating that fundamental respect and friendship which forms the basis of the relations between our two countries.

Although Japan's reigning monarch is largely restricted to making no more than suggestions to government leaders on policy questions, the time of the Nixon-Hirohito session was considered particularly significant in view of recent events that have raised major questions about the future of diplomatic and economic ties between the enemies of 30 years ago.

Nixon and Hirohito will meet on Sept. 26 at Anchorage, where the Emperor will pause before making an over-the-pole flight beginning a seven-nation European tour.

The two leaders will be accompanied by their wives, Pat Nixon and Empress Nagako. This will be the first time a Japanese emperor has ever left his homeland and the first meeting of an American president with a Japanese monarch.

Japanese officials welcome Nixon's announcement. While "it is a general rule that the Emperor does not touch on the political matters," said Nobuyoshi Uryu, a government spokesman, Hirohito's meeting with Nixon would "no doubt contribute to further promotion of friendly relations between the two countries."

The relations between the United States and its principal Pacific ally have been rocky in recent weeks.

Nixon's program announced Sunday to strengthen the dollar was aimed in large measure at reducing import of cheap goods.

Imports from Japan have been of great concern to U.S. manufacturers, especially in textiles and steel. The announcement set off heavy trading in Japanese money and stock markets, and brought a sharp drop in stock prices.

The action also put pressure on the Japanese government to revalue the yen upward but a special Japanese envoy, Yusuke Kashiwagi, said in Washington Friday this would not be done.

Another Nixon announcement, that he would visit Communist China before next May, angered some members of the Japanese government because he did not consult them and advised them only at the last minute.

The Western White House was quick to state, however, that the broad outlines of the meeting were agreed on before Nixon's Sunday announcement.

Said Nixon in a formal statement: "Mrs. Nixon and I plan to meet with their Majesties, the Emperor and Empress of Japan, in Anchorage, Alaska, on Sunday evening, Sept. 26, when away. No U.S. president has ever announced he and Reagan had agreed upon a pilot project, to be implemented in New York and Illinois as well as designed to encourage public welfare recipients to pay off their grants by taking jobs in state and local governments and such nonprofit institutions as hospitals. Only a few thousand people in each state would be immediately affected, officials said.

Washington (AP) — Commerce Secretary John B. Connally announced his intention without giving Smith the time to back down gracefully.

The administration also faces challenges to the wage ceiling from nationwide teachers' organizations and from state officials in Louisiana, who say teachers there will get their scheduled salary increases this fall despite the freeze.

Nevertheless, administration officials including the President himself continued to exude confidence that most Americans would fall into line voluntarily.

Emphasis remained on negotiating with violators rather than hauling them into court, and the discretion as to whether or not legal steps are required remained in Connally's hands.

However, the Texas decision clearly defined what steps would be taken once legal action is deemed necessary. The Emergency Stabilization Act, on which Nixon's freeze order was based, provided criminal fines of $5,000 for violations.

Once an injunction is obtained, a violator is in the position of defying the judicial as well as the executive branch of government if he persists.

That established, the violator whether he be a governor, businessman, labor leader or landlord is liable to fines for contempt of court that could far exceed the $5,000 criminal penalties.

With AFL-CIO President George Meany looking over its ally.

Bolivian Rebels Two-Man Vietnam Race?

Claim Support

Say 10,000 Armed Workers Marching To Nation's Capital

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The rebel radio claimed today that 10,000 armed workers were marching on La Paz to support the uprising against the leftist military government of President Juan Jose Torres.

The radio, broadcasting from the eastern city of Santa Cruz, where the insurrection began Thursday, said the insurgents had military control of six of Bolivia's nine provinces. It warned government supporters that further resistance "will be useless."

The government radio countered that Torres was ready to defend his regime "unto the end" against the "uprising of the fascists." The president met in La Paz with his Cabinet and high ranking military officers in an effort to solve the growing crisis.

Government Control

La Paz, the seat of the government, remained under government control, as workers loyal to Torres demonstrated in the streets. A series of explosions that went off Friday night were caused by miners "demonstrating their loyalty," the government radio said.

The Bolivian Workers Confederation, the major union that helped bring Torres to power in a coup last Oct. 6, reported that the cabinet had turned down the president's request to arm workers. The union said it would form commando units to get arms and organize its own resistance to the insurrection.

Popular Aneal

Torres appealed Friday night from the balcony of the presidential palace for popular support. He declared he would "decree the mobilization of the Bolivian people for the defense of the country in the face of fascism."

The president still had the support of Bolivia's best equipped military unit, the motorized regiment at Viacha, 16 miles from La Paz.

Blast Sets Block Ablaze In N. Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A powerful explosion set a block of stores ablaze in the center of Belfast early today.

Forty firemen took several hours to control the flames as they swept through eight shops. The fire could be seen from seven miles away.

Earlier a gunman ordered an attendant out of an automobile showroom, and then planted a bomb. The blast slightly wounded two men and a woman passerby.

In Londonderry, British troops opened fire at a man apparently aiming at them with a rifle, but the gunman escaped.

Despite the scattered violence, it was one of Northern Ireland's most peaceful nights since Aug. 9 when the British-ruled province was engulfed by a wave of street fighting and arson.

The death toll since then has reached 29—bringing the year's total to 87.

Ky May Run, Court Decides

SAIGON (AP) — The Supreme Court, reportedly under pressure from President Nguyen Van Thieu and the United States, cleared the way today for a two-man presidential race. He reinstated Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky on the Oct. 3 ballot to oppose Thieu.

But Ky deferred his decision whether to run, telling newsmen through his press office that he would announce his decision Sunday. He canceled a scheduled afternoon news conference today.

There was no immediate reaction from retired Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh, who withdrew from the election Friday, leaving Thieu unopposed at that point and throwing the political situation into turmoil.

Assured Minh

Sources said Ky had assured Minh in a meeting four hours before the Supreme Court decision Sunday. He canceled a scheduled afternoon news conference today.

Regardless of Ky's decision, his and Thieu's names will appear on the ballot. The election law states that "candidates do not have the right to withdraw" after the supreme court's final posting of candidates, which took place this afternoon. Ky still could choose not to campaign.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker was said to have played a key role in maneuvering Ky back into contention, thus giving the appearance of a reasonably fair South Vietnamese presidential election.

Need Two

By one reliable account, the 77-year-old ambassador convinced Thieu it was important to have a two-man race while also assuring Ky that the United States would treat him as a serious candidate. Ky backers had complained earlier in the campaign that the United States was downgrading Ky as a candidate and paying attention only to Minh, as a challenger to Thieu.

Like Ky, Minh had repeatedly charged that Thieu was rigging the election and said Friday: "I decided to withdraw because I cannot help in a dirty farce that can only make the people disbelieve in a democratic regime..."

Only Minutes

The Supreme Court decision came only minutes after Bunker and Ky had met for an hour at the vice president's villa. Earlier Ky and Minh had conferred for an hour.

Reliable sources said Bunker, in an 11th hour meeting with Thieu Friday after Minh had pulled out of the race, persuaded Thieu to tell the court to reinstate Ky. The nine-man court is Thieu-appointed. Eight members are reportedly aligned with Thieu and the ninth is a friend of Ky's.

Strong Warning

It was known that Bunker relayed to Thieu a strong warning from President Nixon—that it would be difficult to get the U.S. Congress to approve more aid to the Thieu government if there was only one candidate in the presidential race.

Bunker even took Sen. Robert J. Dole, chairman of the Republican National Committee and a close ally of Nixon's, to the meeting with Thieu late Friday. Dole also warned Thieu that there would be a very critical reaction in the Congress should he be the only man in the race.

Exceed $1.3 Billion

"We believe that the development cost will substantially exceed $1.3 billion, both because of difficulties and overruns and because of the necessity for extensive flight tests," the committee said.

The presidential committee, headed by Richard L. Garwin of International Business Machines in New York, recommended two years earlier the program was unfeasible because of an anticipated poor market, high technical risks, the fact the SST would not be allowed to fly over land because of sonic booms, the likelihood of fare surcharges, probable environmental damage from high-altitude flights and high financial risks.

Argonne Man To Face Trial For Burglary

WAUPACA — Albert Marvin Jr., 37, Argonne, was bound over to Waupaca County Court Branch 1, Friday, after Judge Nathan Wiese heard the state's charges against the defendant at his preliminary hearing.

Marvin was charged Aug. 17 in the burglary of a Marion residence. He was arrested at the William R. Malueg home, 209 N. Park View on Aug. 16 by agents from the State Department of Justice.

The Argonne man, father of five children, faces two counts: burglary, entering a dwelling without consent of the lawful owner while armed with a dangerous weapon and with intent to steal, which carries a maximum sentence of 20 years; and for being in possession of burglary tools, for which he may be fined not more than $1,000, or imprisoned not more than 10 years, or both.

Bond of $1,000 cash and the signature of two property owners, or $10,000 property, was continued.

Conradt Blasts Latest Proposal For Tax Sharing

MADISON — State Rep. Ervin Conradt, R-Shiocton, has criticized the newest proposal for the redistribution of shared taxes as "a fiscal disaster for the taxpayers of Outagamie County."

The new plan is now under consideration by the Budget Conference Committee as an alternative to the tax redistribution plan proposed by the governor and contained in the Assembly version of the budget.

"Under the new tax redistribution proposal, Outagamie County would lose $676,349 in shared taxes and direct property tax relief," Conradt said. "The taxpayers of my county just cannot afford to absorb that loss in state aid — their tax burden is high enough."

"Under both the governor's redistribution formula and this new alternative proposal, Outagamie County stands to lose a substantial amount of state money, as compared to the present system," Conradt explained. "I cannot support any plan that hurts the taxpayers of my county as much as both of these proposals do."

Carnival Raises Funds For Muscular Dystrophy

A carnival for muscular dystrophy was conducted Wednesday in remembrance of Tim Snow, who five years ago died of the disease.

He was the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Snow, 708 E. Harrison St.

The family showed movies in a backyard tent for neighborhood children. The money collected will be donated to the dystrophy foundation.

Effect on Environment?

Lucey Prods I-57 Builders

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Patrick J. Lucey says he wants the state's highway builders to nail down the environment's role in a controversial plan to carve Interstate 57 through scenic eastern Wisconsin countryside.

"I think the highway commission has some catching-up to do on the issue of environmental impact," the Democratic governor remarked Friday after a meeting with the Wisconsin Highway Commission and the state Department of Transportation.

Conservationists Complain He said he received assurances a report on environmental impact would be available for hearings in December. The hearings concern a proposal for relocating U.S. 141 between Milwaukee and Green Bay rather than slicing a new highway corridor through the Cedarburg Bog and the Kettle Moraine.

The commission chairman, William R. Redmond, had predicted new hearings involving the U.S. 141 alternative could delay construction past the government's deadline for granting highway assistance funds.

After Lucey issued his statement, Redmond met with University of Wisconsin environmental researchers and announced: "We've already started moving on the environmental statement."

Milwaukee Opposition The I-57 plan is having trouble in Milwaukee as well as in the countryside. The Green Bay segment would connect in Milwaukee with a highway net work that includes I-94 to Chicago and Minneapolis.

Milwaukee is demanding the state postpone work until assurances are made that persons whose homes are destroyed by construction are provided with adequate replacement housing.

The state must have its route plan approved by July 1, 1973, if it wants to be certain of qualifying for the government's offer of providing 33 percent of costs.

An environmental impact statement must accompany any route plan, and Lucey questioned whether the commission had one.

He was told the statement had not originally been required, at least prior to the commission's hearings on the bog-moraine route.

Accuses Coalition Redmond said the I-57 plan has been attacked by "a well-organized opposition effort," citing the Strip I-57 Coalition.

"If we rolled with all the punches, we would end up with a deplorable type of road system," the commissioner argued. "Not only are our citizens sometimes ahead of us politically, but alternative they are sometimes still further ahead of people in the state agencies."

Redmond denied the issue is causing any static between his agency and the governor's office. The commission and Lucey "get along very well," he said.

Honor 141.

Redmond said he would honor or a U.S. 141 project if it proves more feasible.

If it is determined Interstate 57 should go in the Highway 141 corridor, we could speed up completion of the freeway" although costs might be greater, he said.

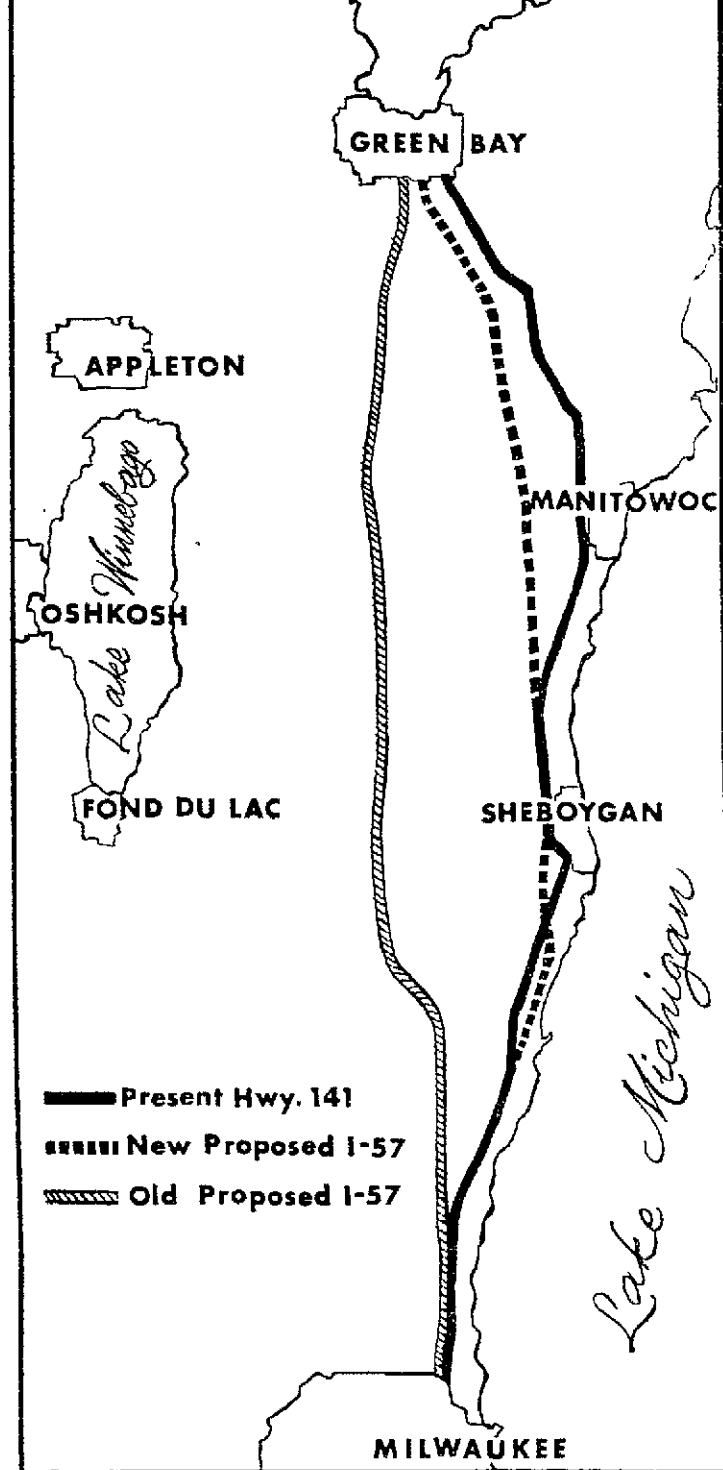

Norman Clapp, state transportation secretary, has estimated the U.S. 141 alternative between Saukville and Bellevue alone could save $26 million as well as considerable rustic termination.

Sections of U.S. 141 would be replaced with elevated highway segments between Saukville and Cedar Grove, and from the Howards Grove area north to Bellevue, near Green Bay.

State Pays Half

The state would pay half the estimated $66 million. But by getting the government to accept the work as part of the nation's interstate highway program, specifically as I-57, the state's share might be no more than 10 percent, Clapp insisted.

"In the long run, I don't think the hearings sometimes ahead of us politically, but alternative they are sometimes still further

Wittenberg-Biramwood Faculty, Classroom Changes Outlined

WITTENBERG — New teaching staff at Wittenberg-Biramwood School District this year include Thomas Stanek, Norman Tubbs, Seymour, primary special education at Wittenberg, Joan Nicholas, Antigo, and Richard Froom, De Kalb, elementary librarian for all elementary schools in the district; Mary Schmidt, Gresham, grade four at Galloway; Janice Gauthier, Wittenberg, intermediate grades five and six, Birnamwood; Tom Rossi, Wittenberg, seventh and eighth grade science at Wittenberg; and George Koonz, Shawano, principal at Wittenberg Elementary.

Two seventh and two eighth grade classes will be housed in the old Wittenberg High School. The move came as a result of transferring some of the kindergarten students from Elderon Elementary to the Wittenberg school and moving the special education room from the portable housing unit set up between the grade and high schools several years ago to the Wittenberg Grade School proper. A former classroom at the Wittenberg Elementary School will now be used for library services. The former special education unit will be for guidance, speech therapy and psychological services.

The interior of the Elderon Elementary School has been redecorated. A drug abuse curriculum and general curriculum revision in kindergarten through grade 12 will be conducted in the second semester. Other changes this year include a full-time elementary librarian and an individualized spelling research project and the establishment of nongraded intermediate multi-unit instruction at Birnamwood Elementary School.

The district also plans to use educational television this year and investigate its further use. Enrollment in the new high school is 615, consisting of 145 seniors, 151 juniors, 151 sophomores and 165 freshmen.

Cheese Exchange

Traders Play Waiting Game

GREEN BAY — Shrewd traders, aware of a national price freeze affecting cheese, played a waiting game here Friday on the Wisconsin Cheese Exchange.

There were no offers, bids, or sales on the market which is a key to national prices for cheese.

The exchange is the only one of its kind in the United States. Each Friday the exchange opens at 10 a.m. and when it closes, the carloads of cheese sold may have influenced the national market.

Special Meeting

But the price freeze ordered by President Richard Nixon places a ceiling on cheese prices and the exchange board of directors held a special meeting Friday after trading opened to determine if the exchange trading would be suspended.

"We, the board of directors of the exchange, determined that the exchange should continue to provide the facilities for trading, watched as an indicator. "We in cheese," said Richard Gould, Green Bay, president of the exchange.

Trading was opened but no transactions were made. Actually such an event is not normal, and does not happen during the trading year. "To say that this had nothing to do with the price freeze, however, would be speculative too," said Gould.

Caution Prevailed

Caution may have prevailed right when the exchange opens at 10 a.m. next Friday members probably were a little reluctant (to trade)," he said.

Since January 4,200,000 pounds of cheese have been traded through the exchange. While sales definitely do not set prices, they are carefully watched as an indicator.

"We don't set any prices of cheese, the transactions are looked on by many people in the industry as an accurate barometer as the value of cheese," said Gould.

Although trading will continue, it may feel the impact of the price freeze. "I would expect that trading would be kind of light," said Gould.

Waupaca's Costly Elm Loss Continues

WAUPACA — The elm trees in the city and surrounding area are looking sad right now, but there is no epidemic of Dutch Elm Disease, according to City Forester Gerald Schultz.

Schultz sent out seven more notices on Friday to city residents requesting them to have diseased trees on their property removed within the next 15 days. This brings the total number of diseased trees to 32, and they have found that there are not as many as they first suspected.

Remove Trees

During the past four weeks the word that Dutch Elm Disease is prevalent among the city's stately old trees has passed among city residents but they became more alarmed after Tuesday's council meeting. At that meeting Schultz reported what had been happening and asked the council for more funds to remove city-owned trees.

He was directed to remove the trees which were positively identified as diseased. Funds for their removal will be "found somewhere" by the finance committee.

The forester guessed at that time that $1,000 would make only a dent in the removal program. Since then he has surveyed the need with street superintendent Neil Rasmussen and they have found that there are not as many as they first suspected.

It is estimated that about one out of every five shade trees in the city are elm. "Waupaca is very fortunate that it has so many maple and oak trees shading streets and yards," the forester said.

Dutch Elm Disease moved in among the local elms about five years ago. Since the diseased trees are found in all areas throughout the city, it is possible that all of the species may be gone in the next five years, according to Schultz.

When a tree is found to have the disease it is cut and burned. Residents should take the wood to the new sanitary landfill site where it will be burned.

"It is good practice, when removing a tree, to strip all bark from the stump because the adult European Elm Beetle deposits its eggs in the bark of the tree, where they hatch in the spring for next year's onslaught," Schultz advised.

Surrounding Area

County Forester Hugh Hayes, when asked if Dutch Elm Disease now is prevalent in the area surrounding the city, said there are a few cases. He urged elm tree owners to make certain that a drooping elm is, in fact, diseased before removing it.

Elm trees are a part of the lumbering operation in Waupaca County. They are used for making furniture as the hard wood can be formed. Several carloads of elm are shipped to Germany each year.

"If an elm tree is diseased and has not deteriorated, it could be marketable," Hayes added. Anyone wishing to know more about this should call him at the courthouse annex.

Wilting leaves are the first sign of Dutch Elm Disease, Hayes explained. "The beetle, brown in color and about the size of a sugar ant, is not easy to see.

Right now the adults are laying their eggs in the bark, he said. Next spring the young adults will emerge, fly to the crotch of young branches and begin to chew. Their mouths are full of fungus, and as they chew, this enters the water conducting vessels of the tree, clogging them, and the tree dies of thirst. Beetles have a flight range of three miles.

Elm tree owners who want to keep their elm as long as they can are advised to carefully prune away the dead branches.

"These spots are easy picking for the beetles when they search for new incubating spots," says Schultz.

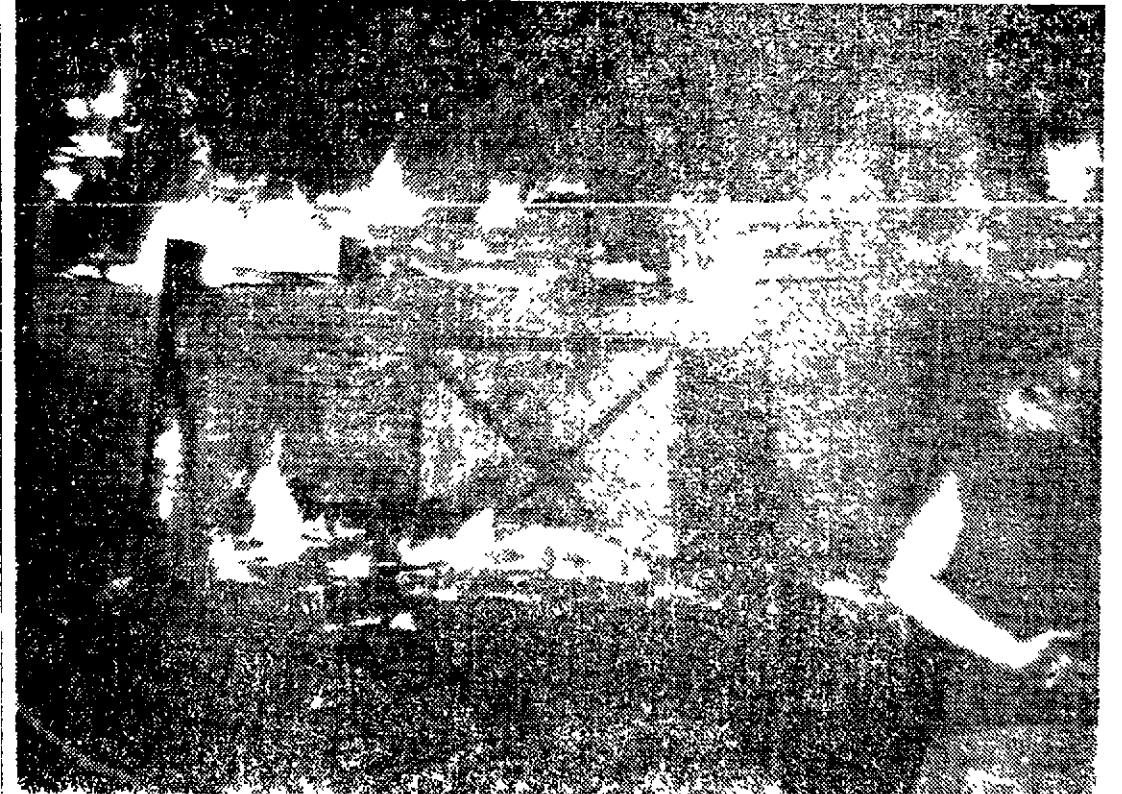

As for the infected elm trees in the flying areas, brought to the attention of the council by one alderman, the problem rests with the owners.

Joint Discussion

"What is the use of removing our elm trees if right across the city-town line there is a big elm with the disease," the councilman asked Tuesday.

It was suggested that the matter could be taken up in the Waupaca Area Council of Governments where the towns of Waupaca, Lind, Farmington and Dayton might assess the situation jointly.

The Department of Natural Resources or county officials could only take a hand if the disease is so prevalent in rural areas that it can be declared "an agricultural nuisance."

The Iola Fire Department was called to the residence of Ben Krause, 475 S. Main at 11:00 p.m. Thursday, where a fire of undetermined origin destroyed a barn used for storage. There was no value put on the contents. Firemen worked for two hours to prevent the fire from spreading to nearby houses. (Nasser Photo)

Dry, Itchy Hand Due To Contact Dermatitis

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For a year and a half I have had a skin infection on my left hand. The skin is dry, it cracks, peels and blisters and itches like mad.

I have been to a dermatologist and had shots, cortisone tablets and an antibiotic ointment. This helps, but the condition keeps recurring.

I am left-handed which could account for the infection on the left hand only. The dermatologist said it was nerves.

While laid off from work, the condition cleared up. I'm a machinist and noticed just lately when I work with cast iron that has a strong odor of sulphur the condition gets worse. I think it was about a year and a half ago we started using this type of iron.

Others in the shop have the same condition on their hands at times. Could you suggest anything that might help? Ointment and gloves are out on this job. — C.D.

You're a good detective, I think. Your skin trouble has all the signs of being a contact dermatitis — a skin ailment due to contact with something or other.

Cases of contact dermatitis often are extremely difficult to identify because the causes can be such a variety of things: Soaps, dye, the paint on a broom handle, nickel-plated objects and an endless list of others.

I would guess that you have not told your dermatologist about that different type of iron you are using, but you very well may have the critical piece of information he needs to help you.

He evidently has tried remedies for the various kinds of skin disease that your case resembles; when your trouble keeps coming back, he suggests nerves.

But if you tell him about the new-type iron, and perhaps even give him some chips of the metal, it may well lead to solving your problem.

Salves and such may help a contact dermatitis somewhat, but the real answer, the permanent one, is to avoid contact with whatever the offending substance is.

Since other men in the shop are having similar trouble, I'd certainly call it to your employer's attention. The sulphur smell may or may not mean anything—but some alloy in the iron, or something used in a pickling solution, could be the culprit.

With other men bothered as well, I dare say that the producer of the iron would like to correct the situation, too.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please write the reason why you don't think douching is advisable after menopause.

Mrs. J.U.

Whether before or after menopause, it isn't necessary, doesn't do any good, and can, in fact, cause irritation if too harsh a solution is used. Even the mildest solution may cause irritation simply by washing away the natural secretions and lubricants of the tissues.

I don't expect to change the minds or habits of any women who have been brought up from childhood thinking they ought to douche. Just the same, the best rule is to use a douche only when prescribed for medicinal purposes.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, including scores of pertinent questions and their answers, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for his booklet, "Make Menopause Easier," enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed (use zip code) envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

I hope the folks who gag on note that when they are eating dinner they don't have to tip swallow. Just relaxing has a lot to do with it.

Tonto Officially Jay Silverheels

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The actor who played the Lone Ranger's sidekick Tonto for almost a decade on television is now Jay Silverheels—officially.

Superior Court Commissioner Harold Bosvert agreed recently to let the actor change his name from Harold J. Smith after he said Jay Silverheels is his true tribal name.

The actor, 59, a Mohawk born in Ontario, Canada, at the Six Nations Reserve, said the Canadian government had insisted that he list a nontribal name when he emigrated to the United States.

Silverheels, who runs the Indian Actors Workshop in Hollywood, is a proponent of Indian cultural identity.

Judge Dismisses Prisoner Claim Of Mouse Murder

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (AP) —

With a quote from the poet Robert Burns, a state Supreme Court judge has dismissed the suit of 22 prisoners in the Suffolk County jail and laid to rest the case of Morris the Mouse.

The prisoners sued prison officials after their pet mouse Morris was "assassinated" by guards who flushed him down a toilet. They charged that prison officials did nothing about the rodents, while Morris kept them away.

After touring the jail Thursday, Justice L. Bazron Hill said he found it an "antiseptic scrubbed stone environment," which would prove very inimical to the natural proclivities of any but the most ascetic rodent.

Then quoting Burns, he noted: "The best laid schemes o' mice an' men gang aft agley and leave us nought but grief an' pain for promised joys."

'Methodists Think, Let Think'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

DENVER (AP) — Those hearty, tolerant-minded believers, the Methodists, gathered here this week from around the world, have often been called "the doers of Christianity."

They stress applying Christian ethics in concrete conditions of life and don't worry much about pinpointing exact theological formulas.

As their 18th century founder, John Wesley, put it, "Methodists alone do not insist on your holding this or that opinion, but they think and let think."

As a result, the church has never fixed in a detailed doctrine its requirements for membership—other than belief in God and in Jesus Christ as God's son and every man's personal savior.

"From there on, theologically you are on your own," writes a Methodist historian, Hartzell Pence.

On the other hand, Methodists are expected to live up to one of the most thorough-going guides to personal responsibility, an 800-page Book of Discipline, laying down rules of Christian conduct in the world.

The contrast of free theological interpretation and extensive prescriptions for action has made for a high degree of practical efficiency in getting things done.

Free Theology

In this country alone, the church has started more than 300 hospitals and other health and welfare institutions and more than 125 colleges, plus other hundreds of them abroad.

The church's publishing house in Nashville, Tenn., is the largest such operation in the nation.

Altogether Methodism includes more than 50 million adherents and 65 church bodies in 87 countries. About 5,000 representatives are here for the world conference being held on the University of Denver campus.

Unlike most Protestant denominations which arose from subtle theological controversies, Methodism instead grew out of a plain, down to earth drive for more vigorous, personal Christian activity.

It began in the Church of England in the early 1700s, with the nonstop preaching of Wesley among the uneducated and underprivileged, emphasizing the "felt experience" of salvation in contrast to prevailing church formalism.

Lay Preachers

The movement probably would have remained within the Anglican Communion, as did Wesley, if the British church had accepted for ordination the many lay preachers he recruited.

However, it refused to do so and often it barred its evangelistic meetings from church facilities, forcing them into the market place and industrial compounds among working people.

The movement spread to the American colonies and pioneer Methodist "circuit riders" followed the frontier westward, bringing a note of order in saying put it, "the first human sound in the American wilderness was the ring of the frontiersman's ax—the second was the preaching of the circuit rider."

One frontier Methodist rider, William W. Van Ordsell, records that one day he found himself in a stagecoach holdup and said to the bandit, "You wouldn't rob an old Methodist preacher, would you?"

"Methodist Myself"

The robber replied, "Of course not, I'm a Methodist myself."

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

by IRA G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

Close doubles of part-score contracts are avoided by all experienced players. Often the potential gain is not worth the risk involved and a slight miscalculation in defense can result in disaster. However, sometimes even the most-experienced and wary player can be backed into a corner.

Today's hand, played by The Aces vs. China in the 1971 World Championship, vividly demonstrates this point. Witness the results of a close-penalty double of a part-score contract.

Vulnerable: 8
Declarer: North

NORTH
♠ 10 8 8
♥ Q 10
♦ Q 8 5 2
♣ 6 5 2

EAST
♠ A J 3
♥ 7 2
♦ K J 10 9
♣ A 8 7 4

SOUTH
♠ K 6
♥ K 6 5 4 3

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1NT	2♥	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of clubs.

When the hand was first played with The Aces holding the East-West cards, East opened the bidding with one diamond and, after a one-heart overcall by South, West played at an unmolested one no trump. When the Chinese held the East-West cards the bidding was as shown. Playing a weak no trump (12 - 15 points), East's one no trump forced South (Ace Bobby Goldman) one level higher if he chose to bid. Choose he did, and West (Stephen Chua) was faced with a murderous problem.

Consider the alternatives. Could he pass holding two aces and two jacks opposite an opening bid? Could he bid spades on that anemic "suit"? Two no trump would be an overbid and might propel the partnership to a bad game. He didn't like the double; however, he liked the other choices less.

West led the club jack, ducked by dummy and East, and declarer won the king. Declarer led a low heart and guessed correctly, playing the ten. The spade ten was led. East ducked and declarer allowed it to ride and held the trick. Declarer switched back to hearts and was able to scramble home with eight tricks losing only one spade, one heart, two diamonds and one club.

Declarer was very lucky. The little he found in dummy was very useful and strategically placed.

During play (watched by a large excited audience). Tannah Hirsch, American Contract Bridge League representative, pointed out a defense to defeat the contract.

When declarer led the spade ten, East could rise with the ace to play a low diamond. Declarer would ruff the third round and lead hearts. West would then win the heart ace, put East on lead with the club ace, and a fourth diamond would promote West's trump jack to the setting trick.

Do you see why close doubles of part scores are avoided? It just isn't worth the wear and tear on the mind and body and the rapport of the partnership. For that matter, it doesn't help one's scores either!

7 Lawrence Alumni Are Outstanding Young Men

Smallest Lutheran Synod 'Toil, Soil and Preaching'

JACKSON, Minn. (AP) — Thore Larson mixes toil with the soil and country church preaching in the nation's smallest Lutheran church body.

And it takes a heap of traveling for the 67-year-old Jackson area farmer to keep up with the five tiny congregations that make up the Eielsen Synod. The parishes are spread among three states—Minnesota, South Dakota and Wisconsin—and he preaches at one community each Sunday.

The synod, which carries the official name of Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, is celebrating its 125th anniversary this year.

Its roots go back to Elling Eielsen, Norwegian immigrant, who launched the synod at Jefferson Prairie, Wis., in April 1846.

Eielsen, a man of simple ways, called for the same approach in religion.

Larson, a man in that mold, said, "We've always stressed the fundamentals, sin and grace, and we've been strong on conversion—being 'born again.'"

The synod has traditional shunned the idea of a clergyman trained in university and seminary and wearing clerical garb. "We stay by the old way," says Larson. "An opening hymn, the collect and epistle for the day, a solo or a singer is present, and a sermon followed by benediction."

There's also an offering, of about 20,000 miles a year travel-course. But Larson counts on farming for his livelihood, with a single son, Truman, 30, carrying much of the load now on their 160-acre dairy and crop land, Wis. and Taylor, Wis.

Rights Leaders Demand Law be Obeyed

Nothing much may come of Governor George Wallace's effort to halt bussing of school children in Alabama. And there may not be much tough desegregation effort under President Nixon's administration. But it seems likely that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare may be in for a suit for failing to enforce Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

A Washington law firm is probably going to bring the suit in federal court on behalf of 31 students and 2 tax-paying clients. The claim is that HEW is still providing federal funds to school systems and colleges which continue to segregate and otherwise discriminate on the basis of race.

Specifically a long list of such systems and colleges in Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, Arkansas and Virginia is cited as receiving the funds while making no apparent progress toward desegregation. Another charge is that 10 public predominantly black colleges are located in communities with predominantly white colleges and there are overlapping programs and services which is also supposed to violate Title VI.

Apparently HEW officials at first were not concerned. It had been earlier spelled out by some Justice Department spokesmen that if school districts were desegregated, every single school in every district did not have to achieve racial balance or even necessarily include a mixture of black and white children. HEW tried to get the suit, filed last fall, dismissed but two months ago the motion was denied by Judge John Pratt of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia. Since that time attorneys for the plaintiffs have been meeting with HEW authorities to get more information. One attorney has complained about lack of complete cooperation and may ask Judge Pratt to order more compliance by the government.

The United States Supreme Court has definitely ruled out any laws which seek to continue segregation. Its attitude on segregation created by housing patterns has not yet been made clear. But it is clear that civil rights leaders are not going to give many southern communities even the extra time which the Nixon Administration seems to encourage.

Preserving Precious Wetlands

Among the major issues in Wisconsin involving the protection of the environment and assuring wise use of irreplaceable resources, there is perhaps more agreement in principle about the desperate urgency of avoiding further destruction of wetlands than on most of the other popularly recognized problems. Wetlands are the marshes and swamps and sloughs — the descriptives are various and often colloquial — that are essential for many forms of wildlife, including game, and are among the most valued of the scenic resources of this fortunately endowed territory.

But the overwhelming share of this critically important land that was often regarded as useless, if not worse, by our frontier ancestors remains in private ownership. There is the rub for the earnest men of our public agencies and the alarmed leaders of the private protection groups who have gained such encouraging support lately from the previously unconcerned.

How to assure the preservation of these lands in their unspoiled condition, within the traditional principles of private property and the rights of the landholder? An early proposal in the Wisconsin legislature this year evidently with some backing from public agencies, bluntly proposed to prohibit the use by private owners of such lands as they saw fit. The public understanding and support of environmental protection has been enlarged enormously, but it has not yet approached backing by responsible persons of the expropriation of private holdings for a public purpose without due process.

More recently the legislature has received a proposal from representative members of the assembly of both parties that would adapt the method of the successful forest crop law of 40 years ago to the preservation of wetlands problem. Under the forest crop law, the state becomes a partner with landowners in encouraging the replanting and management of lands for forestry purposes. Owners pay a nominal property tax and the state makes up some of the loss through special payments to counties and other units of government. Upon harvest, the owner is obliged under the terms of his contract to pay a part of the proceeds from sales to reimburse the state in what is called a severance tax.

There is a constructive idea for a resolution of the wetlands conservation issue here, if some refinements are accepted as usefully advanced by a legislative review committee. First is the obstacle of the uniformity clause of the state constitution. Constitutional law was amended to make possible the forest crop program. Given the public enthusiasm for resource protection today, we may speculate reasonably that such an amendment on behalf of the equally important wetlands issue would be accepted.

Another objection cited by the joint legislative committee on tax exemptions points to the cost of such a law to some districts where wetlands are most numerous. The plan would in effect force remaining property taxpayers in such localities to subsidize a statewide cause. As in the forest crop program, the state should take over such local tax base losses. These requirements should not be insuperable. We hope that the sponsoring legislators accept them and press their proposal as vigorously as they know.

The Soviet-India Treaty

When Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's father, Jawaharlal Nehru, was head of the government in India, he spelled out a policy of non-alignment for his nation aimed at keeping it from becoming too closely attached to either of the major powers and to help develop a "third world" of influence.

The big question now is whether the friendship treaty suddenly signed by the Soviet Union and India has changed that policy. Also to be concerned about is how much the United States is to blame for the treaty if indeed it is a threat to American influence in that part of the world.

In some ways India long ago abandoned all non-alignment. It sought arms from both Russia and America during its skirmishes with Pakistan. Since Chinese border attacks and disputes, it has scorned Peking especially since the latter has generally backed Pakistan. The visionary third world dissolved long ago in nationalistic drives of dozens of so-called non-aligned countries.

But the new Russian-Indian treaty has managed to bring Russia into more influence in India which the United States enthusiasts have always proclaimed to be the one Asiatic underdeveloped nation where democracy and subsequent individual rights seemed to have a chance. Actually the Russians and Indians have not really signed a mutual defense treaty but have only promised, in case of outside attack to hold "consultations . . . to remove such threat and to take appropriate effective measures to ensure peace and the security of their countries." This is ironically similar to the phrases in the Southeast Asian Treaty which some American leaders have used as an excuse for our intervention in Indochina.

The Russians already supply the Indians with the majority of their more sophisticated weapons. There is no pledge to attack either Pakistan or China should one or the other move against India. The treaty could deter such attack, especially from Pakistan which is irate over the Indian backing. At least unofficially, of the claims of the East Pakistanis for independence and probably the arming of Bengal guerrillas by India.

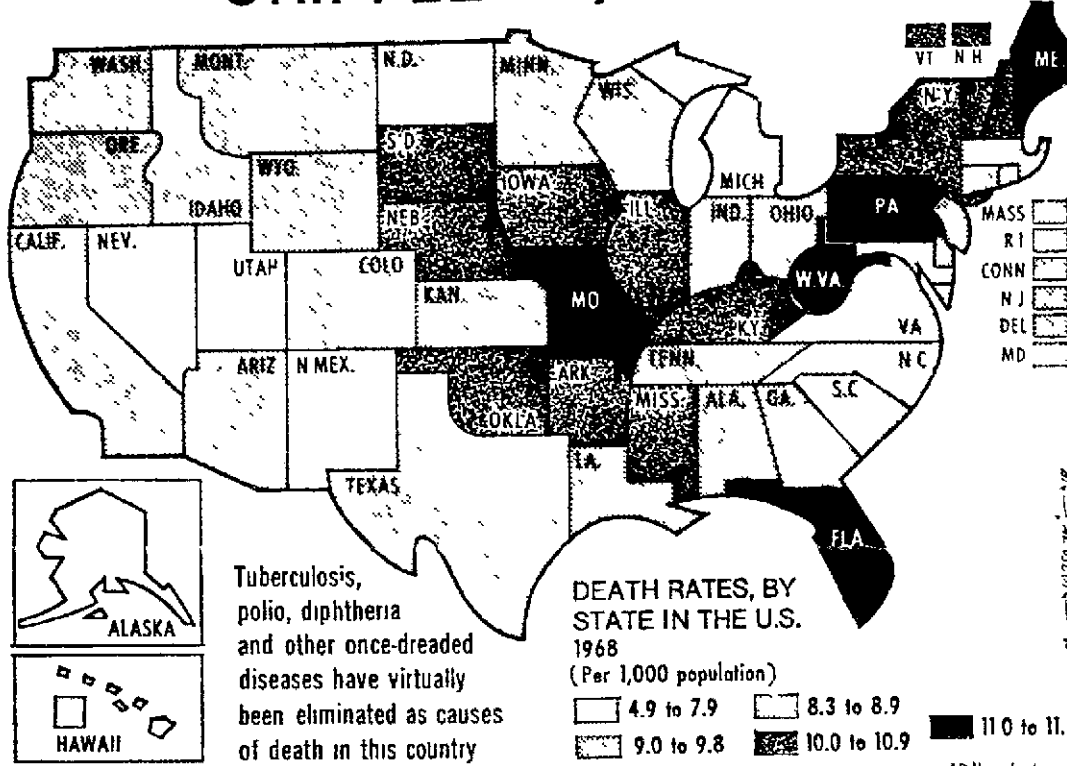

Because of the continued, understandable supplying of arms by the United States to West Pakistan, the treaty raises the possibility of an American-Russian confrontation brought about by a smaller power. Our new relations with China could also encourage the Pakistanis to take more military action against India not to mention its continued ruthless activities in East Pakistan.

But the Russians also have taken a risk. If the treaty is not brought to a test, they will become more important to India. But they could also lose face seriously if they fail militarily to protect India or to deter outside aggression.

For the United States, the move should be a lesson. If we do not want to become militarily involved ourselves in another war thousands of miles from home, why do we continue to supply the weapons of war especially to dictatorial regimes like Pakistan, which use them brutally and threaten the very nation we have tried so hard to build up as a wonderful example in Asia?

DISEASES THAT KILL AND CRIPPLE

Despite advances in medical science, heart attacks, strokes and cancer continue to exact a heavy toll in the United States

Background Map

Hardening of the Arteries Still America's No. 1 Killer

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hardening of the arteries, the condition that underlies heart attacks, is the chief cause of death in the United States and killed 927,660 Americans in 1968, the National Health Education Committee has disclosed in a new report.

The survey noted that, despite great advances in medical science, heart attacks, strokes and cancer continue to take a heavy toll in the United States.

The report, compiled from government and private data, was headed: "Facts on the Major Killing and Crippling Diseases in the United States." It listed the four main ones as heart attack, stroke, cancer and mental illness.

Not Enough Money Committee chairman Mrs. Albert D. Lasker said that the present federal outlay of $1.5 billion a year for medical research was not sufficient to cope with the existing health problems.

On the brighter side, the report disclosed that diseases which were once dreaded, such as tuberculosis, polio, diphtheria and rheumatic heart disease had been virtually eliminated as causes of death in the United States.

The survey, based on figures for 1968, the latest year for which such statistics were available, said that hardening of the arteries was responsible for more than 48 per cent of all deaths from all causes in that year.

Cancer, the second biggest killer, caused 318,910 deaths in 1968, or about one out of every six fatalities. It is estimated that one out of every four Americans will contract cancer at some time in his life, unless preventive measures are devised.

The report said that one in every 10 persons in America suffers from some form of mental or emotional illness. The largest number of first admissions to hospitals was for alcoholism and schizophrenia.

Mentally Retarded It was estimated that there are about six million mentally retarded persons in the United States. About 248,000 of them were confined to institutions in 1968.

Arthritis and rheumatic diseases, the report said, afflict about 17 million Americans and cause 12.2 million days of lost work each year.

It was estimated that 5,390,000 Americans have visual impairment to some degree and 435,000 of them are legally blind. The condition was most prevalent among the elderly.

The nervous disorder known as cerebral palsy afflicts an estimated 750,000 Americans, the figures showed. About 25,000 palsied infants are born each year, and only one out of every five victims can be trained to be independent enough to hold a competitive job.

It was estimated that from one million to two million Americans suffer from some form of epileptic seizures. Drugs are available that can effectively arrest many such seizures, but a large number of epileptics do not get treatment.

A Word Edgewise

Lindsay's Decision Said to Give Democrats Another Loser

BY JOHN P. ROCHE

NEW YORK — Well, Mayor John V. Lindsay has finally decided to change hearses in midstream. It seems as though the Mayor's decision to become a Democrat had been imminent for several years. From the day in 1969 when he lost his own primary, even his commitment to Spiro Agnew seemed a bit irrelevant.

A career in national Republican politics can hardly be based on one nominating speech, though it might be added, for the benefit of those who missed it, that Lindsay did give one of the best seconding speeches in years for a vice presidential candidate. Indeed, tears were seen in Agnew's cold eyes.

One thing has to be said for Lindsay — the man has class. Fiorello La Guardia used to meditate on leaving the G.O.P. on his way to fires and allegedly made the final decision at a pinhole game in Brooklyn. But Lindsay went to the top of a mountain. Whether anyone showed him "all the kingdoms of the world and the glory of them" is not known, but we can deduce on good authority that he did not say, "Get thee hence, Aurelio."

Another Loser?

Most Democratic spokesmen uttered polite noises, welcoming the convert to — as one of them put it — "the party of the people." But the fact is, to put it charitably, that the Democratic Party already has a grand supply of losers and hardly needs Lindsay as a bonus. It should be hastily noted that there is nothing wrong with losing per se. I have been accused of maintaining lost causes, but to be an opportunist and lose — that is a different story. It also defines a category: the "liberal Republican."

One of my favorite non-political figures, Eugene McCarthy, once gave liberal Republicanism its classic definition. "They go into battle with the real Republicans," said Gene, "but their job is to shoot the wounded." This is Lindsay's home turf. On the basis of his track record, one might anticipate him as a Democrat seconding the presidential nomination of Sam Yorty on the ground that Yorty was preferable to Genghis Khan. What is most intriguing is the great stir over Lindsay's shift. The Times began canonization proceedings and predictably the changes will now be rung on the theme of Lindsay's "political courage." The real question is "What options does he have?" His record as mayor has, mirabile dictu, set New Yorkers to reminiscing about the golden age of Robert Wagner. In electoral terms, he worked his way down from 46 per cent of the mayoralty vote in 1965 to 42 per cent in 1969. And every time he sticks his head up in state Republican politics, Nelson Rockefeller, a master of genial brutality, hits him with a sock full of sand. Jacob Javits is in the senate for life and Jim Buckley for at least five years. A depressing scene.

Remember Goldberg True, the New York Democratic Party is not exactly a bed of roses. Indeed, the extent of the mess can be gauged by state chairman John Burns' announcement that Lindsay, by shifting parties, has become the state's leading Democrat! But before he gets too enthusiastic about his reception, the mayor should have a chat with Arthur Goldberg, who has taken the veil in New York politics and is returning to Washington. The reason the New York Democratic Party is leaderless is not for any lack of would-be bosses. It is simply that the boys in New York are neck in neck with their friends in California and Massachusetts when it comes to savage anarchy. All over New York, right now, the Democrats are grimly sharpening their knives.

Perhaps the final prediction at this stage should be that of a leading New York trade unionist, a long-time Lindsay-watcher. "Handsome is a live candidate for president," he says, "of the Ford Foundation."

Parochial Aid Bill Faces Close Vote When Assembly Acts

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — About nine months after the champions of state assistance for the troubled parochial schools planned their campaign for legislative action in the a provision for a Supreme Court test which cannot come until mid-winter.

If the assemblymen manage a vote, they will be confronted with a recommendation for defeat of the bill by the assembly education committee. On matters so thoroughly debated and widely understood as this, a committee recommendation is not necessarily conclusive or even persuasive.

Close Vote Likely

But the tenor of private conversations among assembly members is suggestive. One member says that the lineup is probably in three directions in about equal numbers. One-third of the house probably favors the measure, one-third opposes it, and another third devoutly hopes that somehow it will go away. That is another way of saying that the lineup is uncertain and the vote, if it comes, will probably be reasonably close.

The most newsworthy recent development on an issue that has caused more soul-searching and worrying among lawmakers than any other this year was the public statement of William C. Kahl, state superintendent of public instruction, expressing opposition to public aid of parochial schools. Kahl's statement was not surprising. The public school establishment generally is wary, if not wholly antagonistic, of private school aid.

Refers to Court Ruling

But Kahl's statement was a tardy one. The superintendent related his letter to the education committees of both houses to the United States Supreme Court decision in a recent case which warned about "excessive entanglement" of government in religious affairs in elaborating the rule on separation of church and state in educational matters. His duty, he said, is to uphold the laws and their interpretations by the courts and the state and U.S. Constitutions.

Kahl then emphasized the traditional position of the public school establishment — that private school aid would dilute resources for the public schools. The delayed elaboration of the position of his office, therefore, may yet turn out to be timely in rallying elements of the powerful public school lobby, rather than a measurably important one with respect to his own influence upon the legislature.

Looking Backward

Democrats Told to Organize in Towns

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Aug. 5, 1871.

It is the duty of every Democrat to at once go to work and see to it that every township is organized.

The fountain for a thorough and complete organization should be commenced at once, not by "bummers" and office-seekers, but by honest and intelligent citizens. The more eminent the individual, the greater his responsibility to his country.

A man's private business is no excuse for neglecting his duty to his state. Every town must be organized; the township organization is the foundation on which the whole political structure is based. If bad men control the township organizations, worthless delegates will be sent to the county conventions, as well as the state and national conventions.

No Democrat who has the spirit of 1776 within his body should shirk his political duty.

25 YEARS AGO

Saturday, Aug. 17, 1846.

Walter Jaeger, Clintonville, was elected president of the Jaeger family at the seventh annual reunion in Pierce Park. Arnold Jaeger was named secretary-treasurer.

The Appleton Sons of the American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps opened the Outagamie County Fair at Seymour that day. Clifford Radder, Ninth District commander-elect, welcomed veterans all of whom were admitted free if they were in uniform. Also on the program that afternoon were Dr. Finkle's Melodians and the Seymour Community Band under the direction of William Beyer Jr.

The Paper City Four Quartet was one of the headliners at the Barbershop show that night in Neenah. Members of the foursome were Arnold Patterson, Edward Boehm, John Pinkerton and Victor Fritz.

10 YEARS AGO Saturday, Aug. 19, 1961.

Miss Pamela Wulk and Don Loker were playground leaders that summer at Appleton's Telulah Park.

William Wachtendonk was president of the Northside Kiwanis Club that year, and the club raised $1,000 for the Plamann School fund. In charge of the boys and girls committee in the club was Edward Quevillon.

Craig Dobratz was lighting crew chief and George Welland his assistant for Atlat Theatre's first venture in the musical field. The community theater was presenting "Anything Goes," featuring the music of Cole Porter. Director for the production was Don Jones with Nikolai and Juanita Makaroff the dance directors and Fran Bubolz, of Surgeon Bay, the musical director.

Sponges, Marbles, Pepper Paper Cup

BY CAPPY DICK

"Knock-Lob" is a game for two players. A paper cup is the target. One player uses pieces of synthetic sponge and the other uses marbles. The player with the sponges tries to lob one into the cup before the other player can knock the cup over with one of his marbles. The name of the game is derived from these competitive actions.

To create the supply of sponges, get Mother's permission to cut one of her synthetic sponges. The tossing of the sponges and the shooting of the marbles should be over a distance of five feet from the cup. The players shoot and toss as rapidly as possible, continuing to try until a sponge is landed in the cup or a marble upsets it.

If a player's supply of missiles is exhausted before the game is won by either player he simply scurries to recover either his pieces of sponge or the marbles so he can return to the line and continue trying to win.

Special on Drug Problem In Military

BY TV SCOUT

7:30-8:30 Channel 11 — The rising problem of narcotics' addiction among U.S. servicemen in Vietnam and returned Vietnam veterans is the focus of the ABC News Special, "Heroes and Heroin." The program probes the reasons behind the turn to drugs and the attitudes and position of the military to the drug problem. Special correspondent Frank Reynolds leads a host of Vietnam and U.S. correspondents in studying this, one of most disturbing of stories emerging from the Vietnam War.

4:50-5:30 Channels 11-9 — World of Sports covers one of the most famous rodeos of all, the Calgary Stampede. Jim McKay is there, guiding viewers through the Alberta City, with cowboy Larry Mahan and Oklahoma's senator Clem McSpadden providing expertise. The other portion of the show is devoted to the National Air Races from Reno, Nev., with Jules Bergman hosting.

6:30-7:30 Channels 11-9 — Jack Benny brings his blue-eyes, his magic violin and his rendition of "Love in Bloom" to The Lawrence Welk Show for some good humored moments. (R)

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 — Henry Darrow moves over from his role as Mano in The High Chaparral to play the leader of a group of revolutionaries on Mission: Impossible. He and his gang, now infiltrated by Phelps and Dana, commit robberies. (R)

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — The all-important first few years in a human being's life are explored in Childhood: The Enchanted Years. This is a huge field to cover in one hour, but producer-writer-director Nicolas Noxon told TV Scout the program is basically "an opener, a stimulant, to give the audience a vague idea of the research going on." Half the program deals with this research at Harvard and Berkeley mostly, and the other half, shot in homes around Los Angeles, looks at children from birth to five. (R)

7:30-8 Channels 2-7 — My Three Sons has a very funny script, thanks to the presence of Butch Patrick as Elmore "Yo Yo" Crocker. Ernie's good and dear friend and a young gentleman of smooth tongue. Ernie and he are busily planning their Friday night date, the one on which they will drive the girls because they will have gotten their licenses that day. (R)

7:30-10 Channel 5 — "The Night of the Iguana" gets its umpteenth repeat on Saturday Night at the Movies. It's the 1964 version of a Tennessee Williams play. (R)

TV Series Beamed at Golden Age Audience

Stage-Struck Burt Mustin, 87, Veteran Actress Queenie Smith in TV Series

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The golden age group, probably the most neglected segment of the television audience, will soon have a little corner of its own on a network show.

Burt Mustin, a proud and energetic 87, and Queenie Smith, whose age is nobody's business but her own, are among the co-stars of NBC's forthcoming comedy series, "The Funny Side."

The constant quest of the television producer is the program with universal appeal.

Age, sex and condition of life all play a part in the viewer's choice. Generally, however, men like sports and westerns; women go for human drama—soap operas and medical shows; kids like cartoons.

Since sponsors invest their television money to sell their products, network programs have tended to concentrate on the biggest consumers, young (22 to 35 years of age) parents with expanding families. They are the ones who hit the check-out counters with the overflowing shopping carts.

Most Dependent on TV

The older people, perhaps the most dependent of all on the companionship of their sets, receive scant attention. Lawrence Welk and ABC called it quits, undoubtedly because his audience was largely composed of the post-50 crowd. Many a daytime game show with satisfactory Nielsen ratings has been bumped because audience studies showed the younger mothers were turned to another channel suffering deliciously with a soap heroine.

Burt and Queenie are but one of five couples who will act, sing and dance in the new series, a sort of weekly revue. But the concept suggests that the hour will each week try to have something for everybody.

In addition to the senior citizens, there will be a rich couple, a black couple, a working-class couple and a teen-age couple. Originally dreamed up as "Marriage Can Be Fun," the base was broadened so that the themes will include everything from birth to death, and taxes to women's lib.

Veteran Newcomer

Mustin, whose name may not be familiar but whose face certainly is, retired at 67 after years as an automobile and hearing aid salesman in the East. Stage struck all his life, he got a small part in a film and has been working steadily ever since. Miss Smith, by company, has been a performer since she was 12, and was a Broadway musical comedy star in the 1920s.

Carol Burnett and Harvey Korman have an old folks segment that makes fun of the monthly check at the can be done by mail, telephone or in person.

Dyke and Tim Conway burlesque the infirmities of the old. Presumably, is popular with the gray-heads. "The Funny Side," judging from the change These cards were ad-much faster service. If the Burt and Queenie's report on their monthly check. Because of the month, in most cases it will be a gentle, loving treatment.

2 Clergymen Say United N. Ireland Is Long Way Off

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The fighting in Northern Ireland has pitted Christian against Christian in many cases. Talks with Roman Catholic and Protestant clergymen show the cleavages. One point of agreement is that a united Redemptorist Order.

An Associated Press reporter asked the same questions of the Rev. Sydney Callaghan, minister of the mother church of Irish Methodism, and the Rev. Hugh McLoughlin of the Catholic Redemptorist Order.

The first question was: "What is the state of mind of Protestants and Catholics in Belfast now and what is their thinking after the carnage of the last two weeks?"

Disturber, Distressed

The Rev Mr Callaghan responded:

"Many people in so-called Protestant areas would not be disturbed and distressed by the riotous behavior, but in the Catholic areas, it must be said, how ever, that some would be unclined to say, 'Snap it into them—these people deserved what was coming to them for a long time.' That is to my mind a totally sub-Christian point of view but that is what they believe."

"The true Protestant is very much in the liberal tradition. But I would be dishonest if I implied that this is the attitude of every Protestant."

"And the situation has become polarized in such a way that there is a division into two separate camps. The liberal is having a difficult time."

Privilege Position

"People in the Protestant areas believe the Roman Catholic Church wants a position of privilege in this country, that Roman Catholics want to take over the running of this country. They believe that if that happens, their living standards would be lowered and they would not enjoy the sort of liberties which they have hitherto enjoyed. They also say the Roman Catholic wants the best of both worlds—the economic advantages of living in a welfare state allied to the United Kingdom while in an ideological way he identifies with the Republic of Ireland."

Father McLoughlin said: "The Catholic state of mind is one of fear because people feel that this is not a war against the Irish Republican Army but the evidence of what they see of the military it seems to be a war against the Catholic community."

One-Sided Application

"The one-sided application of internment has annoyed them immensely. If the authorities had interned all known extremists, Protestant and Catholic, the reaction to internment would not have been so violent. But it's one-sided. Only Catholics. The files on the Protestant extremists seemed to have been mysteriously mislaid."

"Another worrying thing is that when the Conservative government came in June 1970 the whole policy of the army changed. The army has allowed Protestant gunmen to operate behind them. We have had definite evidence of Protestant gunmen firing, and when we asked the army to follow up by searches in Protestant areas it was not done."

Your Answer

The next question: "What is your answer to recent criticisms that church leaders on both sides might have done more to speak out against the causes of violence?"

The Rev. Mr. Callaghan spoke for Methodists and also for the Presbyterians and the Anglican Communion.

"Again and again," he said, "the churches have tried to bring the Christian voice to bear on the situation, on things like housing, discrimination and other live issues. But, of course, these things don't make the headlines. The man who has been seeking reconciliation makes no news at all but some hysterical idiot—we have our proportion of idiots in the Protestant church—issues some way-out statement and this is headlined."

3 Times

Father McLoughlin said: "We have three times as many non-Catholic ministers of religion as we have Catholic in Northern Ireland, and through 50 years of injustice against the minority we heard not one Protestant voice raised for justice and equality. All along the Catholic clergy have spoken out against violence. The bishops and clergy have been very active in trying to get peace restored. The bishops have gone into the pulpit in violent areas and condemned the violence."

"The third question: 'Do you see any solution in the short or long term? Would direct rule from Britain improve the situation? And what are the eventual prospects for a united Ireland?'"

No Prospect

"I have to say, and I've said it publicly to my Roman Catholic friends here, that I can see no prospect of any solution until they lose the immense chip on their shoulders." The Methodist churchman replied.

"I don't think direct rule could work. I think we have got to sort out our own problems, sort them out like growing up."

"A united Ireland will come—it's bound to come in time—through the democratic process. It could come in maybe 50 years."

Father McLoughlin said: "No purely military solution can succeed. We have had a military solution for 50 years, a government based on arms and maintained by force of arms to keep the minority down, and it's failed. The military and political solutions must come together. And the only political solution is direct rule from London for perhaps 10 years, to allow moderate opinion on both sides to emerge. Then we can have elections and see what happens."

"There's no question of a united Ireland in the immediate future, even within the next 50 years. You have a million Protestants who would be against it."

"Only a miracle could change the Protestant mind. Attitudes at present are hardening. We'll soon have a time when there's no moderate opinion on either side."

Ewing Slams Home Run

Barrett's Triple in Eighth Gives Foxes 7-5 ML Victory

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Appleton's onrushing Foxes continued their bid for a sweep of Northern Division split-season titles in the Midwest League by rallying for a 7-5 victory over Wisconsin Rapids here Friday night.

The first-half champions Foxes had led only once — on Sam Ewing's solo homer in the initial inning — before coming up with the go-ahead and insurance runs in the eighth. Last night's win — Appleton's fourth in a row — kept the Foxes 1½ games behind second-round-leading Cedar Rapids, a 9-2 winner over Clinton.

Thursday night, Larry Linville earned Foxes hero honors with a game-winning 2-out homer in the ninth. Last night, it was Alex Barrett's turn.

Barrett Stars

Barrett, who had played more than half the season with Wisconsin Rapids before drawing his release and joining the Foxes, haunted his former mates with a resounding 2-out triple to right center field in the eighth. The blow by Barrett scored behind second-round-leading Cedar Rapids, who had drawn his fourth walk of the game. Barrett also tallied a moment later on a passed ball.

Tonight, sensational Rich Gossage is scheduled to pitch for the Foxes in the series finale with the Twins at Goodland Field. Gossage will be shooting for his fourth straight shutout, his 16th consecutive victory and his 18th win, overall.

Last night's Foxes pitching was handled by a trio. Starter Duane Shaffer, who went six innings. Had his strikeout ball working (He notched 10 whiffs.) but was also hit rather freely (giving up nine safeties).

Al Kaline's Homer Sinks Brews, 3-2

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Al Kaline said he didn't even know he had passed Joe DiMaggio on the all-time major league home run list.

As a matter of fact, he even said: "It doesn't make any difference to me at all."

But it made a lot of difference to the Detroit Tigers Friday night.

Kaline hit a three-run homer in the seventh inning off rookie Bill Parsons to provide the Tigers with the margin of victory as they nipped the Milwaukee Brewers 3-2 to snap a three-game losing streak.

Breaks Up No-hitter

The homer followed a leadoff single by Dick McAuliffe which broke up a six-inning no-hitter by righthander Parsons, and a single by Jim Northrup. It was Kaline's 11th of the season and the 362nd of his 19-year career, one more than Hall of Famer Joe DiMaggio banged out in his years with the New York Yankees.

The game was played under protest by Milwaukee because the umpires would not let Jose Cardenal of the Brewers use a Japanese bat which was hollowed out at the end.

Joe Niekro utilized his new-found knuckleball effectively when he needed and spaced eight hits in picking up his sixth victory against five losses, although Fred Scherman and Tom Timmerman got the last two outs.

Parsons fell to 10-15.

Mickey Lolich was to make his second straight try to become a 20-game winner for the first time in his career as the veteran southpaw was scheduled to pitch for Detroit today against righty Skip Lockwood, 8-9. Lolich is 19-9.

"He's in pretty good company when he's up there with DiMaggio," Tiger Manager Bill Martin said of Kaline, whose homer came off a fast ball and landed in the upper deck in left.

"When you're talking about DiMaggio and Kaline you're talking about two guys who can do everything—run, field, hit. I'm really happy for Al."

"Al's just a pro. It's a funny thing about a pro. When the club is not doing good the pros do the job. As far as I'm concerned Kaline is an all-time pro."

Bristol Still Suspended

Milwaukee Manager Dave Bristol was not in uniform for the game because he is in the midst of a five-day suspension for getting nasty with umpires at a recent game. However, Umpire Frank Umont received a report that Bristol was managing the team from the dugout, contrary to the rules. Umont said he would look into the matter.

"Bristol can't protest this game," Martin said smiling. "He's not eligible."

Third-base Coach Cal Elmer was in charge in Bristol's absence.

Parsons pitched a perfect game for 4½ innings before hitting Bill Freehan with a pitch. But Freehan was erased on a double play and the 6-foot-6, 195-pound righthander, who just turned 24, went on to face the minimum of 18 batters for six innings.

"I made one big mistake," Parsons moaned afterwards. "I had pitched Kaline outside all single by Jim Northrup. It was the time and then I tried to get in on him and got it over the plate."

"Against a club like this you make one mistake and boom, you lose it just like that," he added, snapping his fingers.

It was only the second victory in the last seven games for

Hold Visitors Scoreless

Relievers Gene Dube and Eugene Koon held the visitors scoreless in the last three frames, and Koon picked up the win.

Wisconsin Rapids starter Jeff Hooper proved a more productive hitter than pitcher (cracking three hits, for as many runs-batted-in), but the Foxes were unable to kayo him until Barrett's clutch hit in the eighth. Altogether, Hooper yielded 11 hits, with every Foxes regular — plus pinch-hitter Brian Downing — helping himself to at least one hit.

The left-handed-hitting Ewing belted one of Hooper's southpaw slants over the right center field fence, in the first inning, for his eighth homer and 53rd RBI of the season.

The lead proved short-lived because the Twins came back with a pair of run-scoring singles by Tom Smithson and Hooper in the second.

Appleton tied the count, at 2-2, all, in the bottom of the second, on a walk to Bruce Kimm, a bunt-single by Bucky Dent and a run-scoring single by Ross Sapp.

Twins Regain Lead

Hooper's second run-scoring single sent the Twins ahead, 3-2, in the fourth. . . . and Bob Gorinski's double and Elmore Hill's single made it 4-2 in the fifth. The Foxes got one back in their half of the fifth on a walk, a Jerry Hairston double and a passed ball.

Hooper produced another RBI

St. Louis Meets Redskins

Beathard Will QB Cardinals

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pete Beathard, the former Southern California star quarterback, threw only 17 passes for the St. Louis Cardinals during the 1970 National Football League season. Chances are he will throw more than 17 tonight when the Cardinals meet the Washington Redskins in an exhibition game at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium.

Bob Hollway, the Cards' new coach, plans to let Beathard play the entire game, just as he permitted Jim Hart, last season's first-stringer, to go the distance in the team's 16-14 victory over Houston last week in St. Louis' preseason opener.

Ironically, Beathard's best game last season was against Washington. He replaced the injured Hart in the second quarter with St. Louis trailing 10-0 and sparked the Cards to a 27-17 triumph on Sept. 20. He completed six of 13 passes for 56 yards and one touchdown, a six-yarder to Johnny Roland.

4-Player Trade

Beathard, who was obtained before the 1970 season by St. Louis in a four-player trade with Houston, appeared in only two other Cardinal games, hitting on one of two aerials against the Oilers and missing two attempts against Boston.

Otherwise, he sat and watched Hart direct the club.

And after the season, he asked to be traded again. The Cards didn't deal him, however, and tonight he will try and outdo Hart, who connected on 16 of 31 passes for 234 yards last week against Houston.

The game will be a preview of the season's opener between the Cards and Redskins on Sept. 12 and marks the home debut of Washington Coach George Allen. The Redskins are 1-1 in exhibition play. They again will be without their two leading ground gainers, Larry Brown and Charley Harraway, out with injuries.

There will be one exhibition this afternoon. Oakland (1-1) against Los Angeles (2-1) at Berkeley, Calif. Five other preseason contests are scheduled tonight—Chicago (1-1) at Minnesota (2-0), Atlanta (0-1) against Denver (0-1) at Memphis, Tenn., Kansas City (2-0) at New Orleans (0-2), Philadelphia (2-0) at Houston (1-2), and Miami (0-1-1) against Green Bay (0-2) at Milwaukee.

Sunday, four afternoon games are on the slate, with New England (1-1) at Buffalo (1-1), the New York Giants (0-2) against the New York Jets (0-2) at New Haven, Conn., Baltimore (2-1) against Detroit (1-1) at Ann Arbor, Mich., and San Diego (1-1) at San Francisco (1-0-1).

Monday night, Pittsburgh (1-0) plays at Cincinnati (2-0).

The NFL exhibition weekend began Friday night, with Dallas edging Cleveland 16-15 on Mike Clark's third field goal, a 26-yarder with 23 seconds remaining. Cleveland's Don Crockett, booted two field goals, but he missed a decisive conversion after the Browns' only touchdown, a 56-yard run with a recovered fumble by Bob Briggs.

The Los Angeles-Oakland game will be the first pro contest at the University of California's 77,000-seat Memorial Stadium. The Raiders are taking over the park, with special permission from the university's Board of Regents, because the Oakland Athletics are playing baseball today in the Oakland Coliseum.

Recently Acquired

An interesting matchup is expected to be Bob Brown, the Raiders' recently acquired offensive tackle, from Los Angeles, against Deacon Jones, the Rams' perennial all-pro defensive end Daryle Lamonia, the Raiders' regular quarterback, still is sidelined with a pulled leg muscle.

New Orleans will get its first look at this year's Saints—and heralded rookie—quarterback Archie Manning—when the team opens its home season against Kansas City and its hard-rock defense, which has yielded only one touchdown in two games.

Young, Explosive Dolphins Meet Packers in Milwaukee Tonight

Green Bay Looking for Initial Win

BY MIKE O'BRIEN
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Much has changed in pro football in the nearly five years since Don Shula last brought a team to Milwaukee county stadium.

One thing that hasn't though, is Shula's winning habit.

Shula's Baltimore Colts were 24-3 losers to the Green Bay Packers one memorable late summer night here in 1966. But then, the Packers beat almost everybody that year as they rolled to their second of three straight National Football League titles under Vince Lombardi.

The Packers' decline since 1967 has been well documented. But Shula has kept right on winning, posting records of 71-23-4 in seven years coaching Baltimore and 10-4 last season with the Miami Dolphins, the young and explosive team he will send against Green Bay tonight at 8 p.m. CDT.

Third Game

This will be the winless Packers' third of six preseason games as they tune for what many believe will be no more than a transitional season under new coach Dan Devine.

But if Packer fans are getting impatient—Devine himself has advised them not to, as he sifts and prunes his personnel to prepare for the regular season—they need look no further than Shula for an example of instant success.

The Dolphins had gone nowhere in four years of existence until they lured Shula from Baltimore last year as coach, vice president and part owner. He took a team that was 3-10-1 in 1969 to the American Conference playoffs last year, and they are a good bet to go there again.

The Dolphins are led by quarterback Bob Griese, the former Purdue star who completed 58 per cent of his 245 passes last year for 1,019 yards and 12 touchdowns. He is 12 of 21 for 134 in limited action this summer as Miami has lost one and tied one.

Griese's favorite target is Paul Warfield who, despite injury last year, caught 28 passes for 703 yards and a 25.1 yard average. He has caught five passes in the preseason—including four in the first half against San Francisco last weekend before he and Griese sat out the second half.

Wide Receivers

Howard Twilley, former Colt Willie Richardson and Karl Noonan are other capable wide receivers. The tight end is former Packer Marv Fleming, who caught 18 passes for 205 yards last year and is described by Shula as the game's best blocker at his position.

Fleming signed with Miami in 1970 after playing out his option with Green Bay. Jack Clancy, whom the Packers received for Fleming, was cut Wednesday.

But while Griese has matured into the league's top quarterback in his fifth season, it is running that makes Miami go.

The Pirates Rich Hebner sets himself in position, but it was a little late as the grounder hit by the Red's Lee May rolled through his legs in the third inning. Cincinnati won the game, 6-0. (AP Wirephoto)

Dallas Cowboys Rally To Top Browns, 16-15

BY JOHN HOTARD

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Mike Clark's 26-yard field goal with 23 seconds remaining pushed the Dallas Cowboys to a 16-15 victory over the Cleveland Browns Friday night in a National Football League exhibition game.

Clark, who booted three field goals during the contest, had missed a 19-yard effort with 1:53 left.

Defensive end Bob Briggs picked up a Craig Morton fumble and raced 56 yards for Cleveland's only touchdown.

Six field goals were kicked during the game.

Morton, who played the entire game at quarterback, guided the Cowboys to the Cleveland 15 in the third period on a 56-yard pass to Margene Adkins, but had to settle for a 10-yard field goal by Clark.

This put Dallas ahead 13-12 but Bob Hayes fumbled a Cleveland punt on his 8-yard line minutes later and Doug Dieken recovered.

Dan Crackcroft kicked a 16-yard field goal and Cleveland 204 and 219 to show 1,438 pins for his six games.

Cowboy Calvin Hill scrambled 89 yards for the game's first touchdown. Mike Phipps quarterbacked the Browns in the first half and was relieved by Bill Nelson played for the second half.

A Cotton Bowl crowd of 69,099 saw the nationally televised contest.

Dave Hill is 1-Shot Leader In Philadelphia

Bob Rosburg, Murphy Share Runnerup Spot

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It's still an up HILL battle for the field in the $150,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic. But it's a different Hill.

Dave Hill supplanted brother Mike at the top Friday after 36 holes of the four-day 72-hole competition for the $30,000 first prize. The 34-year-old Dave shot a second straight four-under-par 68 over the 6,708-yard Whitmarsh Valley Country Club for a two round total of 136 and a single stroke lead over Bob Murphy 67-70 and Bob Rosburg 67-70.

Mike Hill, who lost his temper and his tempo after using a "wrong" club at the 17th hole, slipped to a one-over-par 73 and a 36-hole total of 138, two strokes off the pace. Also at 138 was Tom Weiskopf, unpredictable winner of one tournament this year.

PGA champion Jack Nicklaus, who said he just wasn't sharp and played sloppy, was deadlocked with George Kundson at 139. Nicklaus shot a one-over-par 73 while Kundson equalled the low score of the day, a four-under-par 68.

Dave Hill refused to get excited about leading the field. "I'm playing better now than at any time in the last two years," said the controversial member of the Hill golfing duo. "But I don't look for it to last. I played super in 1969 then took a two year vacation from playing good."

He said he has lost his enthusiasm for the golf tour and only plays enough to maintain his PGA card.

"I'd rather play $2 Nassau at my club in Denver than play on the tour," said the outspoken Hill who is on PGA probation for deliberately signing a scorecard he knew was wrong.

Hill, who is suing the PGA for $3 million over the probation, said he didn't need the tour money. "Our (he has a partner) club in Denver will keep me eating for 10 years or so."

Gerhardt is Leader in PBA Meet

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — Butch Gerhardt averaged almost 240 pins per game Friday and took a lead of 46 pins after the first six-game block in the $40,000 Waukegan Open bowling tournament.

The Houston, lefthander, who finished third in this event last year shortly after he was married in a laneside ceremony, shot games of 243, 248, 278, 204 and 219 to show 1,438 pins for his six games.

Close behind, on efforts of 233, 234, 199, 225, 245 and 256, was another southpaw Don Helming of St. Louis.

Next in line was still another portlander, Dick Batusta of Astoria, N.Y., registered a high game of 267 in a 1,386 block.

Rounding out the top five, with respective totals of 1,374 and 1,364, were a pair of winless right handers, Roy Buckley of Columbus, Ohio, and Palmer Fallgren of Sacramento, Calif.

Past UW Star Named Coach At Delafield

Town of Neenah Assessed Value At $15 Million

Tax Base Increases Only $500,000 Over Evaluation in 1970

NEENAH — Total assessed valuation within the Town of Neenah climbed to $15,164,325, this year, or more than $500,000 over the total in 1970.

The figures, compiled by Assessor Paul Becker, were released this week by Carita Williams, town clerk.

The assessed value of real property totaling $13,589,925, accounted for most of the overall value in the town. Personal property constituted $1,574,400 of the total. Last year's total assessed value was $14,665,725, according to Mrs. Williams.

A breakdown of the real property is as follows, residential, $9,270,350; mercantile, $1,226,200; manufacturing, $2,002,600; agricultural, $1,077,350; swamp and waste land, $775, and forest land, $12,650.

Personal property, divided into two broad categories, is, agricultural and manufacturing stock, $845,300, and machinery, furniture, equipment and fixtures, $729,100.

Mrs. Williams said the assessment was based on 1,623 taxable land parcels, on which there are 924 dwellings.

Sonny James on Stage Tonight

Loretta Lynn Adds Country Flavor to Fair

BY DINAH WALTER

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — Nine and a half years ago, she began to sing because her husband thought she could, and today she is the top female country singer in the nation.

Songs like "Coal Miner's Daughter," "You Ain't Woman Enough to Take My Man" and "You Say You Wanna Give Me a Lift" have brought Loretta Lynn to country fame, and she brought her fame to Oshkosh Friday night.

In a country-ish floor length dress (blue and white polka-dot with a red top and orange ruffled bottom plus a white sash), Miss Lynn with her backup group, sang many of her famous tunes and clowning during the grandstand show at the Winnebago County Fair.

Miss Lynn is the first of the two main country singer attractions at this year's fair. Sonny James and his Southern Gentlemen will be the hit of the grandstand show beginning at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

In many of Miss Lynn's songs, she has a watch-out attitude, like in "Fist City," "Don't Come Home a' Drinkin' with Loving on Your Mind," and "Your Squaw's on the Warpath."

Backstage, Friday night, Miss Lynn, lively and very personable, said she writes about 90 per cent of her songs. Jokingly, she said that her manager told her he couldn't print any songs if they got more suggestive than "You Say You Wanna Give Me a Lift — but This Gal Ain't a'Goin' That Far."

Why has she chosen country music? The answer is obvious after talking to her, because of her southern drawl and sincere attitude and actions. But in her own words, it is because "it's everyday living."

"Look around you. Every song — someone has lived it," Miss Lynn said.

Country music has been changing over the past couple of decades and Miss Lynn said that she likes the "modern sound of country."

But with the influx of singers to the country field, she said that it is getting harder to distinguish what country music is and what some pop music is. For example, she pointed out that Ray Charles was one of the first pop singers to switch to country.

The swing or life of country singers, however, isn't as easy and simple as style of many of their songs.

Miss Lynn said that she likes the singing, but the continuous traveling is very tiring (she has to be in Missouri for a Sunday matinee, and then go right to Georgia). She said this pace has been going on for four years now, and she hopes to relax next year.

Six Children

Country music takes up much of her time, but it isn't her only life. She is married and the mother of four girls and two boys, and lives on a ranch located between Memphis and Nashville.

Miss Lynn, a very pretty woman with black wavy hair almost reaching her waist turned on the audience last night with her family songs.

Preceding her and warming up the audience to country music, with some pop songs mixed in, was a young new group of singers, called the United Singers, who had formerly been with the "Kids from Wisconsin."

Miss Lynn began her program with "Coal Miner's Daughter," and during the show sang her current hit "I Wanna be Free" and other popular Loretta Lynn songs such as "If You're Looking At Me — You're Looking At Country" among many more.

One of the hits of the evening was the beautifully done "God Bless America, Again."

'Ecology Corner'

Menasha Firm Opens Waste Paper Station

MENASHA — An "ecology corner," a waste paper drop-off center on Washington Street, is performing a dual community service.

The handy shelter put up by John Strange Paperboard Division of Menasha Corporation allows area residents to put their waste paper back into use and, at the same time, provides contributions to the Neenah-Menasha Community Chest campaign.

The firm, who raw material for the manufacture of its products consists of 100 per cent waste paper, installed the covered container for the collection of bundled newspapers, magazines and old corrugated boxes in front of its plant this week.

Ready Access

There is a ready access to the container with parking available at the drop-off station.

An amount equal to the value of the paper collected will be donated to the Community Chest drive, a company spokesman said.

John Strange has been recycling paper since 1893 and now uses more than 300 tons of reclaimed wastepaper each day in the manufacture of paperboard. That is equivalent to 12 freight car loads of wastepaper per day, or 4,680 freight car loads per year.

Translated to the use of wood, it takes 17 trees to make a ton of paper and the firm's recycling process means that an equivalent of 1,445,000 trees per year are not cut for production.

Urges Effort

The company urges "every anti-pollution minded homeowner or storekeeper" in the area to make an "honest" effort to remove all newspapers, magazines and old corrugated boxes from their trash pickups and deposit them at the "ecology corner" or donate them to some non-profit organization or sell them to scrap paper dealers so they can be recycled.

"If we accomplish this goal, we will have won at least one skirmish in our overall war on pollution," a company spokesman said. "In any large, industrial, urbanized society, a total 'pure' environment is simply not attainable. The goal is to restore a balance which provides both support of life and quality of life and John Strange Paperboard Division, by recycling paper, is helping attain this goal."

Neenah Boy Hurt When Firecracker Explodes in Hand

NEENAH — A 14-year-old Neenah boy sustained extensive injury to his right hand Friday when a cherry bomb exploded outside of Lakeroad Lanes bowling alley.

Police said that Brian Elmer, 122 Curtis Ave., was taken to Theda Clark Hospital and treated for chipped bones to his right hand, thumb and forefinger, burns on his right thumb, palm and forefinger and three puncture wounds to the back of his left hand.

Authorities said that the boy was evidently with several other youths in the lot when the incident occurred at 5:52 p.m. Friday.

Neenah Negotiations Continue

Freeze Cuts Out Regular Pay Hikes for Teachers in Fall

NEENAH — Unless the 90-day freeze on wages and salaries is extended, the President's message last Sunday night should not affect Neenah teachers' negotiations, but it could mean a freeze on all increases expected this September.

Normally, a returning teacher would move up a step from spring to September, but as the Neenah school administration understands it now, the teachers will have to work for the same salary in September as they did in June.

This would not affect those staffers at the top of the salary scale who cannot move any further anyway.

The Neenah Education Association (NEA) was openly concerned about this Thursday night during a negotiations meeting with the school board's negotiating team.

Voids Increases

The board reported that the action by the President does void pay increases under teacher contracts unless teachers were actually paid the increased amounts prior to Aug. 14.

Business Manager James Clark said Friday that the amount of money involved has not been tabulated.

As far as the actual negotiations, however, both groups agreed that the order covered the 90-day period — Aug. 14-Nov. 12, and therefore it would allow negotiations to continue for the 1972 contract.

The teachers' master agreement is on a calendar year basis, and they are now negotiating for a contract to become effective Jan. 1, 1972.

The NEA proposed a two-year salary package, which would alleviate some of the financial pressure during the 1972 calendar year.

However, the board said that there was a variation of opinion relative to a two-year contract, and it was not in a position at this meeting to negotiate such a contract.

The NEA suggested that the board be prepared to discuss salary matters at the next meeting, scheduled for Sept. 9. The teachers said they had taken the economic situation of the community into consideration in making their proposal regarding the two-year package.

3.3 Per Cent Hike

The board initially had asked that the teachers retain the 1971 salary schedule which would mean a built-in 3.3 per cent increase.

In other discussion during the meeting, the NEA re-emphasized its request regarding dues check-off. The teachers feel very strongly that if the school board can make voluntary deductions for Community Chest, it should be able to accommodate the NEA by authorizing voluntary deductions for dues.

The board agreed that it would be possible to provide that service to the teachers. However, it would represent an added payroll cost that would be considered in the total cost of the contract.

The teachers also are asking for increased pay for some curricular activities, and discussion was deferred on this relative to possible reductions in the program because of budget cuts. Also, this a monetary item and will be considered as part of the total salary package.

The NEA clarified a previous interpretation regarding a request for chest X-ray examinations. The NEA does not wish to change the present service but wishes to provide an individual with an opportunity of selecting the X ray each year or meeting the state requirement of being tested for TB once every three years.

Sick Leave

The NEA also explained its request regarding the sick leave bank which would provide extended sick leave for a lengthy illness. Teachers would contribute part of their sick leave to the bank on an annual basis to provide extended coverage for the disabled member.

The board of education agreed to change the bonding requirement in the sabbatical leave policy, but it did not agree to expand the policy at an additional cost.

Board team members also have not changed their position regarding the request of the teachers on the reduction of staff. In the event of a staff reduction, the teachers want this to be accomplished following systematic guidelines using a seniority system. The board feels this is a management right and therefore should not be part of the master agreement.

School Calendars

The board and teachers group discussed proposed school calendars for the 1972-73 school year. The board selected two calendars and requested that the teachers choose one of the two proposals. Both calendars propose that classes begin the day after Labor Day.

Brought up was the teachers' request to equalize and establish a maximum teaching load. The board feels that it has made every effort within reasons to maintain equitable teaching loads.

But the teachers feel the loads are becoming greater and that the board could not expect teachers to do a good job of teaching when they have 38 to 45 students per class. No agreement was reached on this issue.

The NEA reported that it was in agreement with the schedule regarding planning time, as long as it was followed.

During a previous session, the board requested that the NEA withdraw its request regarding the inclusion of a code of ethics statement in the labor agreement. The NEA withdrew its request Thursday night, but emphasized the value of including such a statement in a labor agreement of the future.

Youth Gets Year's Probation for Part in Burglary

NEENAH — A 16-year-old boy, charged with two counts of aiding and abetting a burglary, has been placed on a year's probation by Winnebago County Juvenile Judge James G. Sarres.

The boy was charged with the burglary of a home and garage at 218 Congress St. on July 12.

A 15-year-old boy was placed on two years probation to the Winnebago County Department of Social Services for two curfew violations. He was arrested on July 25 and Aug. 8 for being out until 11:30 p.m.

Judge Sarres dismissed disorderly conduct charges against a 15-year-old boy; driving on the sidewalk charges against a 14-year-old boy, and a curfew violation charge against a 13-year-old boy.

E. C. Woods, 2112 Lourdes Dr., is one of two persons appointed co-chairmen of a newly formed Northeast Wisconsin Unit of the Wisconsin Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

He received the appointment from William Krueger, also of Appleton, state president of the Wisconsin Chapter. Betty John of Shiocton is the other co-chairman.

Cystic fibrosis affects the lungs and sometimes the pancreatic gland of children. There is no known cure.

"The purpose of establishing the Northeast Wisconsin Unit, states Woods, "is to help bring a greater awareness to the public of the fact and nature of cystic fibrosis, the plight of children who have it and the urgent need for medical research to relieve the bleak outlook for both the children and their parents and to develop whatever financial support possible, for such medical research."

The unit has scheduled a meeting for 7:30 p.m., Aug. 23 at the Northern State Bank.

Burglary in Marion

Arrest Tied to Theft Ring

A Forest County man arrested Monday for burglary in a safe when he was caught, Marion is believed to be part of a burglary ring that netted close to $100,000, the state justice department says.

Albert Marvin Jr., 37, of Argonne was bound over Friday to Waupaca County Court Branch 1, after state authorities arrested him and an unidentified companion.

The home where the arrest took place was that of William R. Malueg, 209 N. Parkview, Marion. It had been burglarized of $30,000 last Dec. 9, and authorities have since had the building under surveillance.

Marvin reportedly was on his

So far, six men have been charged and four arrested in connection with the series of thefts. Still being sought are Louis A. White, Crandon, who until May had been a Forest County deputy sheriff; and Thomas A. Hagerty, also of Crandon, who is charged with burglary in Oneida County.

Arrested for various burglary counts are Fred C. Hagerty, 36, a brother of Thomas; Terrance L. Queen and Delton David Day, 37, all from the Crandon area.

The justice department said more arrests and charges are expected.

The burglaries are said to have taken place in Oneida, Vilas, Forest, Langlade and Milwaukee Counties. Most of the homes hit in the 30 to 50 break-ins belonged to business and professional people, at work or away on vacations. Cash usually was taken.

In making arrests, agents also discovered a still at a Florence County residence, believed to be part of the operation.

Authorities explained that the house had a gas cooker, capable of distilling 300 gallons of moonshine, plus an attic and basement filled with barrels containing over 1,000 gallons of intoxicants.

Lucey Prods Interstate Builders

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Patrick J. Lucey says he wants the state's highway builders to nail down the environment's role in a controversial plan to carve Interstate 57 through scenic eastern Wisconsin countryside.

"I think the highway commission has some catching-up to do on the issue of environmental impact," the Democratic governor remarked Friday after a meeting with the Wisconsin Highway Commission and the state Department of Transportation.

Conservationists Complain

He said he received assurances a report on environmental impact would be available for hearings in December. The hearings concern a proposal for relocating U.S. 141 between Milwaukee and Green Bay rather than slicing a new highway corridor through the Cedarburg Bog and the Kettle Moraine.

Conservationists are complaining about the highway commission's design for paving a section of the bog's wildlife domain. Rural residents have organized committees to protect the tree-clad hills of the Kettle Moraine farther north.

The Commission has said it would cost too much to rebuild an existing highway through settled areas.

The commission chairman, William R. Redmond, had predicted new hearings involving the U.S. 141 alternative could delay construction past the government's deadline for granting highway assistance funds.

After Lucey issued his statement, Redmond met with University of Wisconsin environmental researchers and announced: "We've already started moving on the environmental statement."

Milwaukee Opposition

The I-57 plan is having trouble in Milwaukee as well as in the countryside. The Green Bay segment would connect in Milwaukee with a highway network that includes I-94 to Chicago and Minneapolis.

Milwaukee is demanding the state postpone work until assurances are made that persons whose homes are destroyed by construction are provided with adequate replacement housing.

The state must have its route plan approved by July 1, 1973, or a U.S. 141 project if it if it wants to be certain of qualifying for the government's offer of providing 90 per cent of costs.

An environmental impact statement must accompany any route plan, and Lucey questioned whether the commission had one.

He was told the statement had not originally been required, at least prior to the commission's hearings on the bog-moraine route.

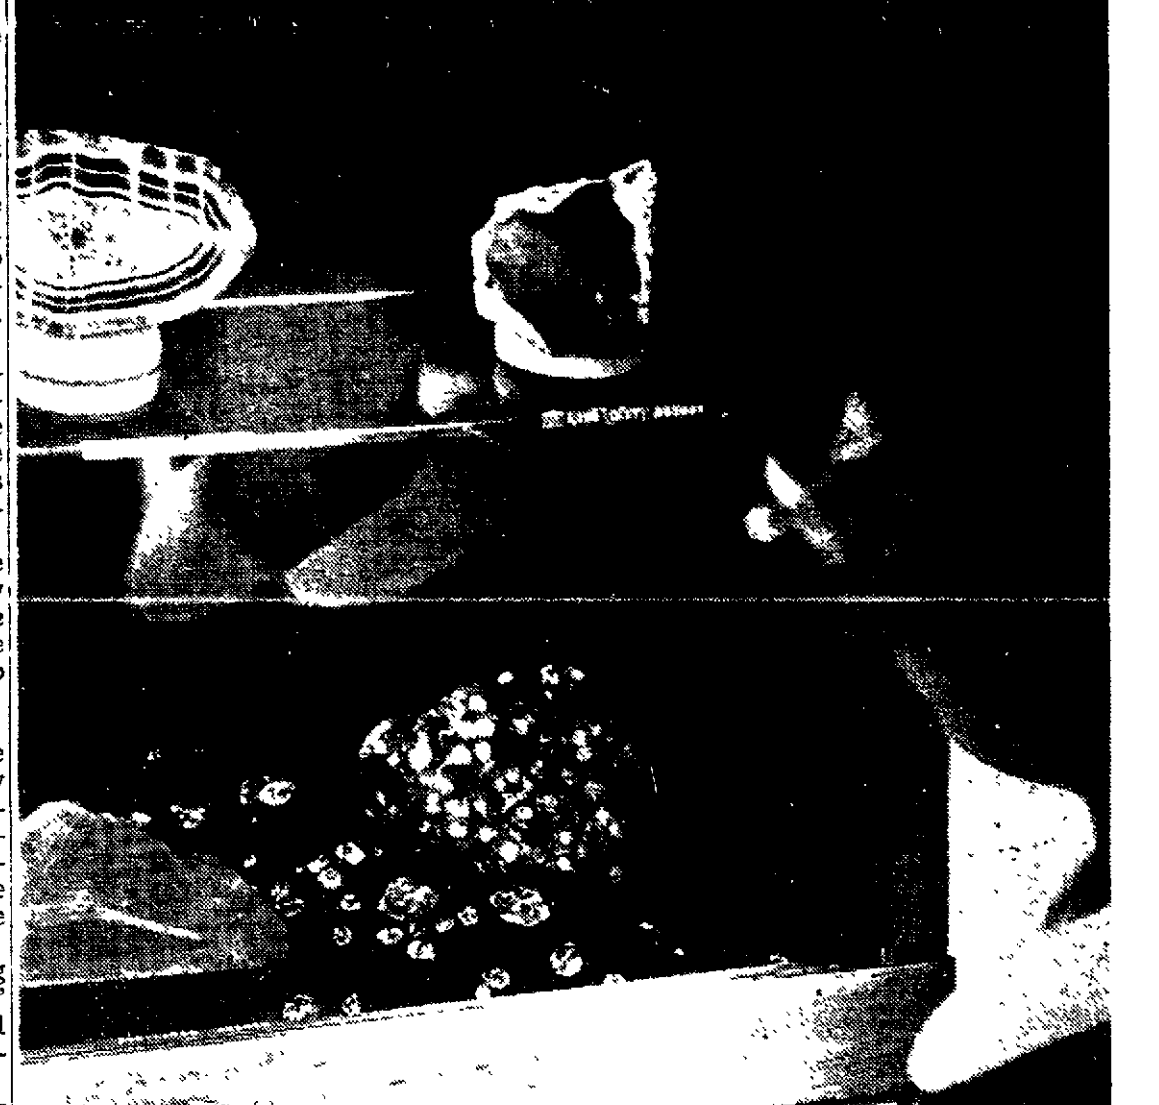

Accuses Coalition

Redmond said the I-57 plan has been attacked by "a well-organized opposition effort," citing the Stop I-57 Coalition.

"If we rolled with all the punches, we would end up with a deplorable type of road system," the commissioner argued.

"Not only are our citizens sometimes ahead of us politicians," Lucey remarked, "but they are sometimes still further ahead of people in the state agencies."

Redmond denied the issue is causing any static between his agency and the governor's office. The commission and Lucey

Assessment Review

Taxpayers Get Annual Chance to Complain

Next week brings Appleton property taxpayers their once-a-year chance to disagree with the assessor and, if they are right, have something done about it.

The Board of Review starts its annual session at 10 a.m. Monday to hear property owners who disagree with the valuation Assessor George Schwarzbauer's office places on their property.

By late Friday afternoon, following a week of public inspection of the new assessment rolls, 13 persons had signed the required forms and made appointments to voice objections before the board.

The number is small compared with previous years, but Schwarzbauer said he expects more will appear next week. The review board will meet daily until it runs out of protests.

Public Confusion

The property assessing and taxing systems always generate confusion, and the appeal system similarly is little understood by most taxpayers.

A common error is to confuse the assessed valuation with the tax itself. Another is to wait until the tax bill arrives to protest the assessed value. By the time the tax bills arrive at year-end, it is too late to argue about the valuation. Only the board of review can change the valuation, and the board meets but once a year, usually about this time in August.

Early this year, for example, several persons brought their tax bills before the City Council Finance Committee to protest. But it came out that their argument was not with the tax bill but with the assessed valuation on which the tax is based.

"You should have gone before the Board of Review," committeemen told several frustrated protesters. At least one is scheduled to appear before the board next week.

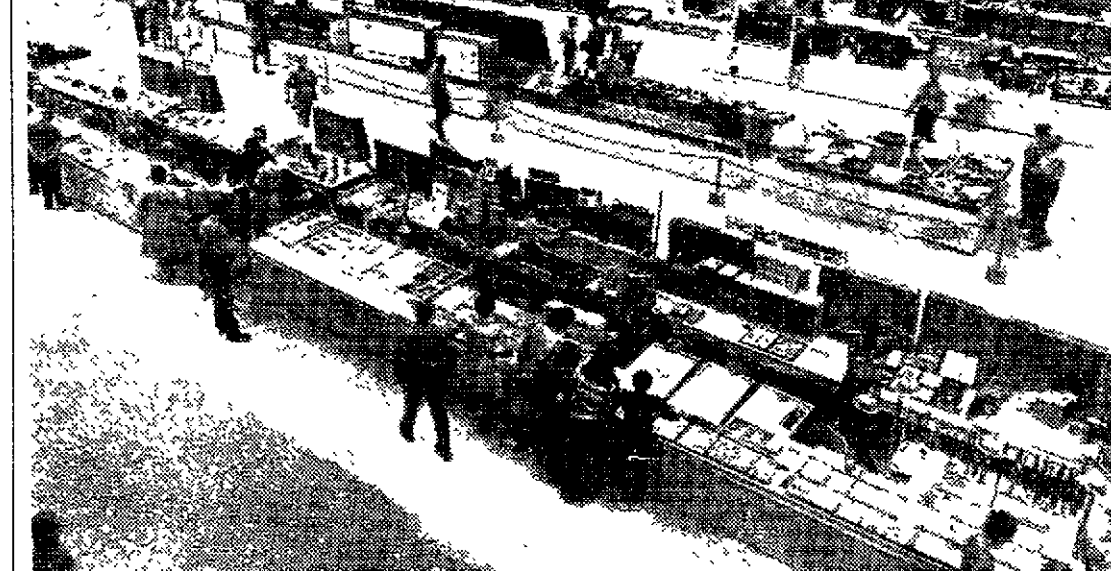

Common Mistake

Schwarzbauer pointed out that another common mistake made by property owners is to seek a lower valuation on the basis that they believe a neighbor's property is under-assessed.

In such a case, if the objector is willing to identify the neighbor — and few are — the assessor should increase the assessed value that is too low, not decrease that of the objector.

The only valid grounds for lowering a valuation is to show that it is too high in relation to the rest of the city — not just to one other piece of property.

The way to test an assessed value against the citywide average is to determine the property's fair value on today's market and multiply that by 37 per cent. If the figure that results matches the assessed valuation, it is in line with the citywide average. If it differs, there may be grounds for an objection.

Consumer Advocate

Lawmaker Bucks Phone Rate Hike

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — State Rep. Harout Sanasarian, D-Milwaukee, plans to act as a "consumer advocate" during Public Service Commission (PSC) hearings next month, and will oppose a Wisconsin Telephone Co. rate increase.

Sanasarian announced his plans Friday in an open letter to PSC Chairman William F. Eich.

"I intend to invite all interested persons, consumers and businessmen to contact my office in Madison to help me keep Wisconsin utility rates down and to assure that the PSC is aware of all possible consumer problems involving the Wisconsin Telephone Co.," Sanasarian said.

The legislator said he has appointed five men to "confer with the commission staff and to inspect commission records" relating to the company.

Hearings Slated

The PSC public hearings on the company's request for an undetermined interim rate increase are scheduled for Sept. 8-10 at the Milwaukee City Hall.

Sanasarian is the author of a bill which would provide a "consumer advocate" and staff to work within the PSC on behalf of the consumer.

He will lead opposition to the rate increase because the average consumer "wouldn't get the same cooperation from the PSC as I would," in inspecting the commission's records, Sanasarian said.

98.2 Per Cent Of Tax Paid In Appleton

City Treasurer Gets $14,577,675 Before Deadline

By the July 31 deadline for final payments, Appleton taxpayers had paid 98.2 per cent of the 1970 tax roll to Treasurer Ray L. Feuerstein.

The total tax roll was $14,895,918.92, including special assessments and other miscellaneous charges, in addition to the real estate and personal property taxes. Collections by July 31 totalled $14,577,675.62. Feuerstein reported in his annual collection summary.

Remaining personal property taxes and special assessments totaling $311,804.20 will be collected — plus interest — by Outagamie and Calumet County treasurers. Feuerstein will collect the $6,439.10 in delinquent personal property taxes, also charging interest.

The interest penalty is .8 per cent per month for each month the payment is overdue.

Prior to the July 31 final deadline, Feuerstein reported, he collected $7,893.90 in interest on payments made after the deadlines on earlier installments.

The treasurer's office no longer accepts payments on the overdue remainder, and will return them to the taxpayer with instructions to send them instead to the proper county treasurer.

Feuerstein said the portion collected before the deadline is about the same as in previous years.

Bill Proposed to End Auto Eyesores

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Legislators representing Fox Valley districts are the chief authors of the latest of a number of bills proposed to meet the complaints of environmentalists and others about abandoned automobiles that sully the landscape.

Their proposal would make it a misdemeanor for any person to abandon a motor vehicle, and authorizes counties to impound such property and to sell it after owners or lienholders have had time to assert reclamation rights.

Counties would be authorized to contract with private salvage operators, and the costs of collections and related activity would be borne through a new tax of three dollars that would be imposed on each new motor vehicle in the state at the time of its original sale.

Major sponsors of the plan are Reps. Conrad of Shiocton, Quinn of Green Bay, Bradley of Oshkosh, Vander Perren of rural Brown County, and Byers of Marion.

In a related proposal, the authors provide new pressure for the curbing of the abandonment of junked vehicles by permitting both nuisance suit and criminal penalties with fines of up to $200 for persons held responsible for such acts.

The new legislation would permit counties to remove abandoned vehicles on request, but exceptions would be made for motor vehicle hobby collectors.

Kimberly Value $279,229 Higher

KIMBERLY — Assessed valuation of the city for 1972 was set at $29,087,738, an increase of $279,229 over last year's figure of $28,808,709, according to figures released by Assessor William Ruff.

Setting the final figures followed a series of board of review meetings at which few persons appeared to question assessments.

Based on last year's tax rate of $58 per $1,000 assessed valuation, the increase in assessment would raise an additional $16,182 through the tax levy. The village recorded no annexations during the year and construction was relatively low as noted through the relative small increase in valuation.

Residential Property

Value of residential property increased from $10,781,575 to $10,971,700, an increase of $190,125 for the major hike.

Merchandise assessment increased $45,300 from $938,175 to $983,475 and manufacturing increased $21,950 from $15,071,450 to $15,093,400. Total real estate assessment increased from $26,475,550 to $27,048,575.

Assessment for merchants and manufacturing stock in personal property was increased from $1,773,240 to $1,801,783, an increase of $28,543, but all other personal property showed a decrease from $244,269 to $237,380, a difference of $6,889. Total personal property increased $21,654 from $2,017,509 to $2,039,163.

Tax Breakdown

A breakdown of real estate taxes showed residential land value increasing $5,675 to $2,417,375; residential improvements up $184,450 to $8,554,325; mercantile land up $12,700 to $169,675; mercantile improvements up $26,000 to $813,800; manufacturing land up $2,725 to $296,875 and manufacturing improvements up $19,225 to $14,796,525.

Under personal property, furniture, fixtures and equipment valuation showed a decrease from $150,059 to $126,200. Value of merchants' stock rose $6,165 to $125,465; manufacturing stock rose $22,378 to $1,676,318 and machinery, tools and patterns showed an increase of $16,155 to $111,045.

City Projects Report

Drew Street to be Opened

The final stretch of Drew Street, closed to traffic much of the summer for reconstruction, is expected to be reopened next week, weather permitting, according to City Engineer Thomas Harp.

Paving crews have been replacing driveway aprons and sidewalks after finishing the main paving project, and portions of the street already have been opened to traffic. The sections that remain to be opened are near Wisconsin Avenue.

Opening Drew will remove one more construction-oriented traffic bottleneck. But at least two other major arteries will remain closed — S Oneida Street where a drawbridge is being repaired and the area of the Franklin and Division street intersection where Franklin paving is being followed by railroad grade crossing reconstruction.

Holy Cross School Registration Monday

KAUKAUNA — Registration of pupils in all grades will be held Monday at Holy Cross Catholic School. Teachers will be in classrooms to meet with parents from 9 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 3 p.m.

Classes will begin at 8:30 a.m. Aug. 30 with an enrollment of approximately 500 anticipated. This would represent about two classrooms for each grade in the school.

Carnival Raises Funds For Muscular Dystrophy

A carnival for muscular dystrophy was conducted Wednesday in remembrance of Tim Snow, who five years ago died of the disease.

He was the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Snow, 708 E. Harrison St.

The family showed movies in a backyard tent for neighborhood children. The money collected will be donated to the dystrophy foundation.
